MAYORS ARE FIRM IN PLACING RELIEF COSTS AT OTTAWA

Montreal Assembly Determined Monetary Reform is Only Key to Problem, and Recovery Measures Deemed National Duty

MONTREAL, March 26. — Representative mayors from the nine Canadian provinces last night, over a coast-to-coast commission hookup, discussed the unemployment relief problem and its relation to municipal finance.

Mayor McGeer, who heads the finance committee, urged a new deal in financial administration.

"Unfortunately," he said, "neither provincial nor municipal government has any jurisdiction in the realms of banking and finance." People were not unwilling to work, but those who should put them to work found themselves without financial means. "Our troubles are due to a shortage of liquid capital."

Financing Progress Is National Duty

Cost of unemployment relief, added to the burden of depression, "now threatens our municipal and provincial political structures with bankruptcy," he said. "The problem of financing progress was a national responsibility.

"It is the duty of the national government to maintain a sound and practical monetary system that will at all times provide national, provincial and municipal governments with the means of financing all public works, public enterprise and social service at cost. This does not mean uncontrollable inflation, the nationalization of our merchant banks or the socialization of private finance.

Only Key Is Monetary Reform

"Only by the national control of our monetary system can we find the way to eliminate unemployment and restore progress. With that accomplished, the regulation of the rate of progress, the control of the volume of production, the maintainance of a more equitable distribution of wealth, the advancement of social justice, the regulation of interval commerce and all other kindred problems will become matters of practical administration. Until we solve our monetary problems all other efforts to eliminate unemployment will prove useless and futile."

Houde Gives Warning Of Woe to Come

MONTREAL, March 26.—The mayoral conference now proceeding here unanimously resolved today "that from and after April 1, the dominion government take over and assume the entire cost of unemployment relief in the dominion of Canada."

The conference, according to Mayor Camilien Houde, Montreal, " represents directly approximately 5,000,000 of the country's population and more than 75 per cent of the taxes paid."

As chairman of the relief committee of the conference, Mayor Houde said if the Dominion government did not take over re'ief there would be serious disorders within a year, "at least in Montreal."

M'Geer Asks For Monies At 3 Percent

MONTREAL, March 26—Creation of national and provincial councils in the interests of municipal finance is recommended in one of two resolutions of the committee on finance and borrowing submitted to the mayoral conference today by Mayor G. G. McGeer of Vancouver.

Recommendation is also made municipalities be given the right to retire debentures upon not more than six months' notice, the right to refund the debentures and, to secure for such refunding minimum interest rates. The guarantee of the Dominion and provincial governments, money to be made available at three per cent.

As chairman of the committee, Mayor McGeer has been responsible for the drafting of the resolutions, which embody demands to the Dominion government it make immediate legislative revisions to benefit the financial structures of municipal corporations.

U.F.A. Government Saves Its Budget By Single Ballot

Joining forces to stress as emphatically as possible the dire need for reduction in expenditures, the combined forces of the opposition in the legislature on Monday came within one vote of sending the entire governmental estimates for the fiscal year commencing on April 1 back for revision and reduction. On a straight vote, representing the combined opposition, the government defeated by 21 to 20 a motion, moved by D. M. Duggan, provincial Conservative leader, to "rise and report and ask the government to come back with reduced estimates and membership in this house as well as revising the income tax to increase the levy on higher incomes."

In support of the motion were 19 Liberals, five Conservatives, two Labor and three Independents numbering 29. Opposed were 21 U.F.A. members, M. C. McKeen (U.F.A., Lac Ste. Anne, was chairman of the committee at the time).

Not since accession to power in 1921 has the government come so close to defeat in the house.

Galleries sat electrified as Mr. Duggan moved his motion and then called for a standing vote, which all but sent the whole volume of estimates reeling back for revision and reduction and a new start on the whole budget question.

As the house was in committee

JOHN BUCHAN MAY BECOME GOV.-GENERAL

Successor To Bessborough Likely Named for Canada Soon

By GEORGE HAMBLETON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 26 — John Buchan, one of the most versatile and accomplished men of letters of the time, will be the next Governor-General of Canada, it was understood unofficially here today. Lord Bessborough, the present Governor-General, is due to retire shortly.

Mr. Buchan has been a Conservative member of parliament for the Scottish Universities since 1927. He has already had experience as His Majesty's representative, having been Lord High Commissioner of the Church of Scotland Assembly in 1933 and 1934, his successor in this office for this year being the Duke of Kent, His Majesty's youngest son.

FIRST COMMONER

If the appointment is confirmed, Canada will have its first "commoner" Governor-General, every occupant of the position since 1867 having been a member of the peerage. This is subject of course to the possibility that Buchan may be elevated to the peerage in the King's birthday honors.

ANGLO-GERMAN PARLEY ENDS IN NO ARMS GAIN

By MELVIN K. WHITELEATHER
Copyright, 1935, by The Associated Press

BERLIN, March 26. — The Anglo-German conversations ended late today and it was officially stated that Reichsfuehrer Hitler had not given a definite indication of how large a military force he intends to build.

Hitler, German officials said, parried the questions of Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, and turned back the whole arms problem to the former allied enemies of Germany.

"We will await disarmament proposals from other powers rather than make such proposals ourselves," Hitler was officially said to have told Sir John.

Regarding the League of Nations, it was said that the Reichsfuehrer repeated the familiar German argument that all matters must be settled for Germany before he would consider re-entering the League.

The chief inconsistency remarked by the British, it was asserted, lay in Germany's willingness to sign non-aggression pacts with all his neighbors but his firm refusal to participate in Danubian pacts guaranteeing the independence of Austria.

The British negotiators also wanted the German chancellor to give more exact form to his objections to the proposed "Eastern Locarno," which he refused yesterday on grounds that it might endanger Germany.

Sir John will return to London tomorrow to report to the British cabinet what Hitler will and will not do. British sources said Sir John made it clear that Great Britain will have to oppose Germany unless Hitler consents to join in collective efforts to keep the peace.

MOSCOW FEARS UNITY ALONE PREVENTS WAR

Soviet, France, Italy in Tri-Pact Seen as Only Hope

MOSCOW, March 26.—War is inevitable unless the Soviet Union, France and Italy act in perfect unity, Russian official circles feared last night. This was the reaction to unofficial indications Germany would try to drive a wedge between France and the Soviet Union by offering to enter into an accord with France provided Russia is excluded.

To meet such an attempt, authorities prepared a new campaign to carry through the proposed "Eastern Locarno" or a similar treaty, and were ready to stress this strongly to Capt. Anthony Eden, British Lord Privy Seal, when he arrives to interview Maxim Litvinoff, foreign commissar, on March 28.

Capt. Eden will meet Joseph Stalin, "strong man" of the Soviet Union and secretary general of the Communist central committee, on March 30, it was said.

Pierre Laval, French foreign minister, will come to Moscow April 20, it was officially confirmed last night.

MAYOR HOUDE HOST

The speeches stressed that chief magistrates from Halifax to Victoria, gathered here for a two-day conference, wished to arrive at some solution of the problems of direct relief and municipal finance.

No gathering since confederation was so momentous as the present one, declared Mayor Houde, as he opened the addresses. "We feel," he stated, "we are beginning a new page in Canadian history."

Relief it was "fully realized in most official quarters that the municipalities must be relieved of this unprecedented and unbearable burden" of unemployment relief was expressed by Mayor Simpson.

WINNIPEG - ROBLEM

Unemployment relief in Winnipeg was no new thing, Ald. Anderson said, but whereas from 1921 to 1930 the demand was seasonable only, since that date it had become a year-round problem and the cost had steadily mounted till in 1934 the cost was $3,700,000, of which Winnipeg had to raise $1,350,000 or an amount equal to one-sixth of the total city budget for carrying on regular civic services.

RELIEF CHILD TO BE SHELVED MAYORS' PLAN

Depression Offspring Goes On Government's Doorstep

By THOMAS WAYLING
Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

MONTREAL, March 26—The Dominion Mayors convention will on Thursday "march to Ottawa" and leave the direct relief child of depression on the doorstep of the Federal government, repudiating all responsibility. Whether the Federal government will take the child and then negotiate with the provinces for a division of the cost on a fifty fifty basis remains to be seen.

Premier Taschereau of Quebec and Premier Hepburn of Ontario have both indicated their willingness to take over direct relief costs with the Dominion on a fifty fifty basis.

The major decision of the Mayors' convention is that they simply cannot carry on. Some of the cities in good financial condition would manage it, but feel that the problem is a

SILVER HITS 60 CENT MARK

NEW YORK, March 26—Sixty-cent silver, just a rosy dream for seven years, became an actuality Monday and opened a new vista of economic and political possibilities for the Shanghai bund around the world through Wall Street and the City of London.

In Wall Street, where the speculative silver market was killed by the Silver Nationalization Act, traders attributed the day's rise of one cent to 60 cents an ounce to the sale of $1,000,000 in United States gold to Mexico in exchange for silver, the absence from world markets of a floating supply of the white metal, and the current wide discussion of inflation possibilities in the United States.

dependent on relief doles (in Winnipeg) at a monthly cost to the city alone of $12,000. One-seventh of our city's population in receipt of relief—our borrowings mounting; demands for more and more services.

"Is there any wonder then that the city of Winnipeg is joining with the other centres of Canada in pressing the Dominion government to relieve us from this intolerable burden?" he asked.

RELIGIOUS TREND

"Not until we introduce into our social and economic problems the spirit of Jesus Christ," said Mayor Davison, will suffering cease. The solution of our difficulties must come from a change of heart, from the dictatorship of the spirit of God within."

Belief it was unfair and unjust that municipalities should have to take care from their own finances of transients and others who should not be charges to it, was another view expressed by Mayor Davison, a member of the finance committee.

"If the situation of relief is to be placed on a national basis this problem, as well as many of a kindred nature, would be solved.

CALGARY'S VIEWS

"Relief expenditures would be paid for from Dominion taxation, resulting in all people bearing a fair share of the cost instead of the present condition where the larger cities are forced to foot a major portion of the bill." Mayor Davison said one of the aims of the present government is "to negotiate a new relief deal with our senior governments, which will be more just and more equitable and one that will be within the financial ability of all cities to undertake."

BEGINS AT HOME

"The cost of unemployment relief has become a burden greater than the west can bear," said Mayor Hindle of Calgary. "In case of national emergency the Federal government should assume the full cost of relief and this should be taken to supply constructive employment and means defended by which our municipal indebtedness could be redinanced at a lower rate of interest."

In Saskatchewan, he continued, nearly one-third of the population was on relief as, in addition to world-wide depression the "greatest agricultural province in Canada" had suffered from low prices for farm products, drought in the south and a grasshopper plague. "When the Lord loveth he chasteneth." If that were so, Saskatchewan was the most beloved province in Canada."

MORALS AFFECTED

Deterioration of morals caused by the condition of unemployment prevailing in Canada was discussed by Mayor Kennedy.

"An honest man who has always been accustomed honorably to earn the bread to feed himself and his family, who was used in the past to feel himself to be a useful and worthy member of society, now finds himself cast upon the scrap heap. . . To one who is easily cast down this produces a morbid and abject mentality, a condition of dull and dead despair wherein the man soon becomes quite unfit for any sort of work even if it is offered him. "To some of the bolder spirits the despair caused by unemployment may be a spur to reckless and criminal acts."

Mayor Cragg stated that for four years the municipalities of Canada had struggled along under a burden which was never theirs and which "they can carry no longer. Direct relief of the unemployed never was and never will be a local problem. The more complex our economic life becomes, the more clearly must central governments assume responsibility for the correction of flaws in the system and for the prevention of dislocations in it. . . .

"The cities and towns, long unable to cope with steadily mounting relief costs, are now determined to place the load right where it belongs. That is on the shoulders of the federal government."

OTTAWA, March 26—The King George V. silver jubilee cancer fund management Monday received from a Saskatchewan village postmaster an offer to donate to the fund all the profits from his private business between now and the end of the campaign, May 6.

The management noted in Monday's press communique that contributions from individual citizens "constitute the largest number from any one group."

Canadian Motor Cars Would Burn 25,000,000 Bushels Yearly if Proposal Adopted.

OTTAWA, March 26—Canadian motor cars would burn up 25,000,000 bushels of wheat each year if a suggestion propounded in the house of commons last night by A. A. Carmichael (Prog. Kindersley) was adopted.

He called attention to studies made in production of an alcohol motor fuel from wheat by the National Research Council, and outlined benefits which would follow such a development including provision of a new domestic market for wheat.

Hon. R. B. Hanson, minister of trade and commerce, replied that direct attention of proper government officials to the suggestion had thought increased cost of such fuel would be a difficulty. He said the National Research Council had found motor fuel could be produced more cheaply from coal than from wheat although there was a definite quality in producing it from the grain.

One bushel of wheat would make two gallons of alcohol, said Mr. Carmichael. When this alcohol was mixed in a proportion of 10 per cent with gasoline it produced an improved fuel. Canada used about 500,000,000 gallons of gasoline each year, a large proportion of which was imported. If 10 per cent of this fuel were obtained from wheat it would mean consumption of 50,000,000 gallons of alcohol or 25,000,000 bushels of wheat.

GOOD "ANTI-KNOCK"

Low grade wheat was quite satisfactory and on a price basis of 60 cents a bushel, alcohol could be produced for about 13 cents a gallon. Allowing for transportation costs, the general price of motor fuel over the whole of Canada might increase about three cents a gallon. But the fuel would be better, as grain alcohol served the same purpose as tetra-ethyl lead. It had anti-knock quality, it burned more soon, cut down oil consumption and gave longer life to valves and motors.

SINGLE VOTE SAVES U.F.A. GOVT. BUDGET

and the wording of the motion was not such as to make a dissolution of the house necessary immediately the government's premier would have taken a sudden, deep, drop had Mr. Duggan's motion carried.

"RESIGNATION CARRIED"

When the result of the standing vote was announced, Mr. Duggan interjected: "Surely that is close enough to call for a recount."

For one of the few times this session, all opposition factions were united in their demand for a revision of the estimates.

Liberals, under command of W. R. Howson, K.C., provincial Liberal leader, quickly swung into line behind the demand, while Conservatives were solid behind Mr. Duggan. Led by Fred J. White, provincial labor leader, members of that party stood up, as did the Independents The U.F.A. stood close together, solidly opposed to the Duggan motion.

Several members on both sides of the house were absent from their seats when the vote was taken.

Premier Reid was in the corridor at the time, but hurried in when he heard of the close shave his colleagues had had.

HOWSON RENEWS DEMAND

Mr. Howson exploded another bomb under governmental encampments when, immediately after the Duggan motion had been disposed of, he renewed his demand for reduction of cabinet ministers' salaries from $6,000 to $5,000. This motion also was rejected by the government, which had rejected Mr. Howson's plan to have nearly $10,000 on cabinet ministers' salaries alone, as suggested last week.

But the demand for economy and reduction of expenditures was in the air and throughout the subsequent discussion several motions were made to strike out various items of expenditure, all meeting with the same fate at the hands of the government.

The house got its excitement early.

As soon as preliminaries were out of the way, the house went into committee of supply to consider the estimates and immediately attention to education estimates.

DEMANDS LESS MINISTERS

As soon as discussion commenced Mr. Duggan got to his feet and declared he had a few remarks to make regarding the estimates in general.

"Mr. Friday (the legislature) we do not seem to appreciate the situation in which the province finds itself," he said. "We have fully paid cabinet ministers and I have consistently taken the position in this house that the number can be considerably reduced.

"I have protested before and I protest again against proceeding with the estimates and deciding once again to pay such cabinet ministers and to make provision for 63 members.

"If we address ourselves seriously to adjusting the estimates, I am sure we can save our people a considerable amount."

He pointed out that in regard to the income tax, no effort was being made to raise the scale of taxation on the higher incomes and to correspondingly lower it to relieve the harder pressed people.

CLAIM DEATH CREE INDIAN WAS ACCIDENT

Defence Entered for Frank Twin, Charged With Manslaughter

That the death of Peter Sound, Saddle Lake Treaty Indian, at Kinuso, early this month, was purely accidental and not caused through a violent physical struggle, was the claim advanced by Frank Twin, young Cree, charged with manslaughter as the result of Sound's death.

Twin took the witness stand in supreme criminal court Tuesday and told the jury of twelve and a jury that the dead man had attacked him with his fists and had accidentally slipped and fell, to sustain a skull fracture from which he died two days later. He denied he had "tackled" Sound around the legs and hurled the latter to the ground, in the manner described by crown witnesses.

Louis Twin, brother of the man now on trial, and who will face a charge of assault at the conclusion of the present hearing, also gave evidence on behalf of his brother.

Addresses of Crown Counsel E. B. Cogswell, K.C., and R. F. Jackson for the defence followed and the court's charge to the jury were scheduled for the afternoon session of court Tuesday. It is expected that a verdict will be returned early in the afternoon.

U. M. M. A. FILES STRIKE WARNING

Handing city council the ultimatum that a strike vote would be taken and in the event of the city not meeting their relief demands a strike of the unemployed would be called for April 8, providing the vote was successful, delegates from the Unemployed Married Men's Association appeared before council Monday night. Demands were referred to the civic finance committee for further consideration.

J. O. McPherson, president of the U.M.M.A., stated that the association was asking for a 15 per cent increase in food allowances, more adequate clothing allowances, abolition of the wage-declaration system, and other demands dealt with at a meeting of the association Saturday.

He complained of the fact that council always supported recommendations of Relief Manager H. F. McKee — "McKee thinks he should save money and not to help the unemployed," he declared.

O. C. Bremner, member of the U. M. M. A., reminded council he had handed in a strike ultimatum to the city on behalf of the single unemployed and that it had been carried out. "You know we are not fooling," he said.

Delegates Bremner and Jones, of the Loyal Citizens' Association supported the U. M. M. A. in the demands.

Asked by Ald. J. T. McCreath how they planned carrying out a strike, delegates said relief cases would refuse to work for the city.

national one, that the Federal government is insisting on previous occasions considered it national must now really make it so.

MAYOR CLARKE TALKS

Mayor Clarke of Edmonton told the Mayors of Edmonton's situation which was better than that of many other municipalities.

"We have no business to remark in the condition of facing financial and municipal problems in the same way our forefathers faced them in 1860," declared Mayor Clarke.

He referred to action taken by the Federal government to relieve the debts of the farmers. The cities were worse off than the farms.

BANK GET PAID

The Imperial Bank in Edmonton had voluntarily reduced the interest rate on the city's overdraft last year from 6 per cent. to 5 per cent, and this year, at the city's request, from 5 to 4½.

If the bank could do this there could be no reason why the Dominion government should not be asked to take hold of the proposition.

Another major problem was the loss of homes because people could not pay taxes.

CITIZENS COME FIRST

"It is not the bondholders or the debenture holders we have to think of first," said Mayor Clarke. "The Dominion government should not allow itself to be dictated to by insurance companies or others who never did a day's work in their lives, who never had a child, or who never cast a vote while the property-holders had to leave their properties and move away. Neither should the cities be allowed to deprive men and women of their lives' savings and their homes in order to "pay through the nose."

HER EMPHATIC "NO" SECURED INTERPRETER

Perfectly concise and emphatically declared English was used by a witness in Supreme Criminal court Monday to refute the suggestion of a barrister that she could speak English.

During the trial of Frank Twin, treaty Indian of Kinuso, for manslaughter, Mrs. Nora Willier, a coy Cree maiden from the Saddle Lake reservation, was called to the services of an interpreter.

"I think the witness understands sufficient English to make herself understood to the court and jury," R. F. Jackson, defence counsel said.

"Do you understand English?" asked E. B. Cogswell, K.C., crown counsel.

"No!" came back the explosive and emphatic, if none the less convincing reply.

Mr. Justice Ford joined with the spectators in a laugh but ruled that the witness should be satisfied herself of an interpreter, despite her ready answer to the question of counsel.

Twin is charged as a result of affrays on the reservation on March 7 last in which he is alleged to have inflicted injuries to the fight that caused the death of Peter Sound, also a treaty Indian. According to crown witnesses, who testified Monday, the accused became angered over a $5 bill he claimed Sound owed him, and under the influence of moonshine whisky had hurled deceased to the ground, inflicting a fracture of the skull, which proved fatal.

The case is expected to go to the jury early Tuesday.

Louis Twin, brother of Frank, will face trial for manslaughter following the trial now in progress.

Maj. Burwash On Way North

Surface indications at the Rich group 9 miles east of Burwash, as those at Athabasca, stated Major L. T. Burwash, president of the Burwash Yellowknife Mines, Limited, who is in Edmonton en route to the north.

Although, stated Major Burwash the findings had only been made one week before the closing of activities last month, there was every indication of promising developments.

The best feature of the strike, said Major Burwash, was the spectacular free gold found in the 22 foot channel.

For the present, stated Major Burwash, the company intended to descend in the gold bearing vein face, and the results from this would determine their further activities.

Inghraham suffered amputation of both legs as a result of severe burns, in addition to other injuries.

He has been away from Cameron Bay about six weeks and was a guest of the King Edward hotel during his stay here.

MEMBERS URGE SETTLER SUB-AGENCIES IN NORTH

INFLUX OF NEW HOMESTEADERS IS PROOF OF NEEDS

Grouard, St. Paul Representatives Declare Small Expense Well Repaid in Valuable Service.

Stressing the value of the service to the settlers flocking into the north country from dried-out areas of the south and emphasizing the small amount of money required to provide this service, L. A. Giroux, Liberal, Grouard, and Joseph M. Dechene, Liberal, St. Paul, during discussion of estimates in the legislature on Monday, urged the re-opening of the sub-land agencies in the northern sections of the province.

Both Mr. Giroux and Mr. Dechene were most vigorous in their advocacy of the re-opening of the offices.

Mr. Dechene and Mr. Giroux both dealt with the hardships encountered by the settlers arriving from the dried out areas and encountering conditions with which they were unfamiliar. They commended at the fine spirit and courage displayed under adverse conditions.

ASSESSORS NOT ENOUGH

They stressed as an objection to the existing conditions, the fact that the assessors did not carry with them sufficient information on lands still available for homestead settlement.

Hon. Hugh W. Allen, minister of lands and mines, under whose department the activity comes, said that the work was being done efficiently under present conditions by municipal inspectors as part of their regular work in travelling about the various improvement districts. The offices had been closed as part of the government economy program and now such land offices were operated only at Edmonton, Peace River, Calgary and Lethbridge.

Mr. Giroux came back by stating that the question of the slight expense involved should not be a detriment as the people were rightfully entitled to the sub-agency office and he pressed strongly for re-institution of the service.

Mr. Dechene declared that thousands of honest settlers were entering the area every year and they should be given the service of a sub-agency.

ALL ALBERTANS

These settlers, he said, were willing to go into the country and develop it and they should be placed at no greater disadvantage than was necessary.

"To operate a sub-land agency would cost only $80 a month," he said. "Also, we should remember that these people are citizens who have been in this province for many years and, now are moving to new districts to carve out new homes. We have raised the bars against all others taking homesteads there."

If this request were granted, said the minister, at least a half dozen sub-agencies would have to be re-opened, to the west of Wetaskiwin, to the northeast of Vegreville and in the Peace River area. Newcomers could obtain all the information they required while passing through this city.

EDUCATIONAL GRANTS PASSED BY HOUSE

Additional Building At the University Stressed As Need

With the exception of the vote of $89,650 for the University of Alberta, education department estimates totalling about $2,000,000 were ratified by the legislature sitting in committee of supply on Monday. The University vote shows an increase of $14,000 over that of last year.

The University vote was stood over so members could inquire more minutely into details.

Among the items approved was that of $28,238 in final settlement of the famous Powell's Initiation case, the total cost of which is in excess of $50,000.

Asked by L. A. Giroux, Liberal, why no appeal had been taken in the case, Hon. Perren Baker, minister of education stated it was considered wiser to settle.

So far as his information went, declared the minister, this settlement would close the case.

WANT MORE BUILDING

Discussing the University grant, Peter A. Miskew, Liberal, Victoria emphasized the fact that the institution relied to a great extent on students fees and grants for its revenue. He stressed the lack of building at the University over the last few years, stating it was the only university in the country that had remained stationary in this respect.

Erction of a library should be carried out immediately in order that the students should have a proper place to study and seek information.

Equalization of salaries of the lower paid professors also was urged by Mr. Miskew who said that they had not participated in the higher schedule.

Increased research in coal and water matters accounts for an increase of $3,400 in the research council vote.

Approval was given for $1,451,080 grants to schools, being an increase of $60,000 over last year.

Mr. Miskew pointed out the need of greater inspectional facilities for schools and recalled that inspectors could not give more time to each school than they were doing at present. ...otes of $13,282 for the Edmonton Normal school and $25,-459 for that at Camrose and $41,717 for that at Calgary, were approved.

H. H. Dakin, Liberal, Beaver River, record the minister in regard to a school dispute in his riding. He told of having to make two trips here and incurring $100 out of pocket expenses and contended that the whole matter could have been settled by the minister in five words had he been disposed to do so.

Hugh C. Farthing, Conservative, Calgary, wondered if the government had anything to say regarding a scheme of teachers' pensions and claimed it was the only province lacking such a scheme.

TEACHERS' PENSIONS

Such a scheme had been under consideration for many years, declared the minister and no scheme had been discussed that would be acceptable to the teachers that did not call for a contribution by the province of $150,000. Even a modified plan considered by the teachers some years ago, would have involved a large outlay on the province's part.

L. A. Giroux, Liberal, Grouard, moved for elimination of the $42,000 for examinations expenses and suggested a large amount could be saved if teachers did this work under supervision of principals. Much progress had been made in this line, declared the Minister, who said that exams up to Grade 10 had been abolished.

Messrs. Miskew and Giroux closely interrogated the Minister on permission for erection of school buildings and suggested that all contractors should be given equal opportunity, or at least giving preference to residents of the area other things being equal and in view of the fact that they were paying taxes. The Minister was not aware of the restrictions and he would be glad to look into the matter.

Fred J. White, provincial Labor leader, charged that when new text books are being issued the department should control the rights of the texts to save royalties and other costs to the consumer.

The Minister said that regarding readers, the four western provinces used uniform texts and the matter of supply did not rest with any individual province.

Exercises For School Founding

Exercises in connection with the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the first Edmonton school district were held in the assembly hall of the McDougall Commercial High School Monday.

Dr. W. G. Carpenter, B.A., of Calgary, director of technical and commercial education for Alberta, was the guest speaker. He traced the growth of the Edmonton high schools since 1912, when he was principal of Victoria High, and paid glowing tributes to the scholastic and athletic record of McDougall Commercial since it was organized in 1914. His address ended in a ringing challenge to the young people of today not to be downhearted because of the present depression, but to look forward to the future with optimism.

NO REVISION MINES ACT THIS YEAR

Probe of Three to Study Alberta Coal Industry Says Premier

A commission of three outstanding authorities will be appointed to probe the Alberta coal industry, and pending submission of a report by that commission there will be no revision of the Mines Act. This information was given in the legislature on Monday night by Premier R. G. Reid during discussion of lands and mines department estimates.

The personnel of the commission is not yet available, but the chairman will be a well known British authority.

Fred J. White, provincial Labor leader, urged that the commission be made up of three men, with a good practical miner included, so that, if necessary, a minority report could be submitted.

In making up the commission, Premier Reid told the house, he said the thought was that in addition to the chairman, there would be representation from the mine operators and also from the mine workers.

INADEQUATE "RESCUE GEAR"

George E. Cruickshank, Independent, Bow Mountain, brought up the question of the rescue work and contended he had been informed the mine rescue car was not only delapidated but was a disgrace. "The apparatus inside may be in fair shape," he said, "but I am informed that the inspector who went into the mine at Coleman last fall to rescue a man would be alive today if the equipment had been in good order."

Mr. Cruickshank advocated that small rescue stations be installed at the mouth of every mine where there were more than 75 workers, if not at all mines.

Premier R. G. Reid stated he had made some inquiries and had been informed the equipment was in good shape.

Dealing with some suggestions that the mine rescue work be transferred to the control of the mines branch, the premier said that the Workmen's Compensation board would be willing to let this branch go, but he was not sure of the readiness of the mines branch to take it over.

The question of control of this branch of the service was one to which he proposed to give further consideration.

COAL STATEMENT DUE

Under the mines branch vote and later in the evening there was discussion on the coal industry, which ended with Hon. George Hoadley, minister of trade and industry promising to make a complete statement later in the week. He did, however, state that opportunity would be given in the near future for the submission of ideas on the question of code formation.

W. Harry Ross, Liberal, Calgary, during estimates said Calgary was interested in this division through three things, the increased wealth of the province, the amount of profitable work given trained men and the continuity of supply for the extraction of gasoline and dry gas.

He recalled that during the regime of the Dominion government in natural resources, much geological work had been done and he asked if this was to be continued.

Hon. Hugh Allen, minister of lands and mines said the Dominion was still carrying on along this line and that the province would be carrying on a certain amount of research work too.

Mr. Ross wondered if any difference was to be made in royalties paid on proved and unproved fields, to which Premier Reid replied that the question was being considered.

OUTSIDERS EMPLOYED

Harvey Bossenberry, Liberal, Pincher Creek, said that complaints had been made to him that United States drillers were being employed when there were available many capable Canadian drillers who would get the preference, and Hon. Mr. Allen said this question also was before the department.

Fred J. White, provincial Labor leader, urged that the government take action, by way of lease cancellation or otherwise, against those companies who sought to evade responsibility to employees by transferring assets to holding companies in an effort to "gyp" employees of their pay.

Mr. Bossenberry and John J. Bowlen, Liberal, Calgary, were critical of the department regarding some forest fire fighting in the southern part of the province last summer and said there was a suggestion that the organization of the fighters was not all that it should have been. Mr. Bowlen thought three or four changes in the personnel might be advantageous.

LEGISLATURE IN LAST RESPECTS TO EX-GOVERNOR

Tribute was paid by members of the legislature on Monday to the late John Whitnah Leedy, 86, last populist governor of Kansas, who died Sunday after a long, useful career of public service.

Shortly after the house convened for the Monday afternoon sitting, D. M. Duggan, provincial Conservative leader, rose and said that he thought it was appropriate to establish in the official record of the house the death of Mr. Leedy. Such a proceeding was unusual, but he thought it well justified under the circumstances and in view of the position Mr. Leedy had once occupied in Kansas.

"Kansas already has recognized his services to that state and I think it is fitting that we make some mention of his service," declared Mr. Duggan.

He stressed the work Mr. Leedy had done in earlier stages of the U. F. A. career and recalled his stand on various questions of public import, including monetary reform.

Premier R. G. Reid expressed his regret at the passing of Mr. Leedy and desired to associate himself with the sentiments expressed by Mr. Duggan and was certain that no one acquainted with Mr. Leedy would feel that Mr. Duggan had in any way exaggerated the appreciation of Mr. Leedy's work, apparent on all hands.

Without further discussion the house agreed.

Three Divorce Decrees Issued

The divorce mill ground busily in supreme civil court Monday afternoon when Mr. Justice Tweedie issued two absolute and one nisi decrees.

Ellaline Wyman had her marriage to Hector L. Wyman, performed here in January, 1927, severed when the final decree was granted. C. Gerald O'Connor, K.C., was counsel for the plaintiff. The other absolute decree was granted to Irene Violet Abbott, married to Mark Abbott in March, 1926. J. A. Ogilvie acted for Mrs. Wyman.

A nisi decree was obtained by Arthur W. Boyce in a divorce action against Bernadine Boyce, the marriage taking place in October, 1929. R. D. White was solicitor for the plaintiff and the action was undefended.

Protest Outside Tender For New Police Barracks

Maintaining that the contract for the construction of the new Royal Canadian Mounted Police barracks here should have been let to a local construction firm, Ald. J. T. McCreath, at city council meeting Monday, said he had heard the tender of an outside contractor had been accepted for this work.

Ald. McCreath suggested that a wire be sent by the city to Ottawa urging that an Edmonton firm be given the work, but no action was taken by council along this line owing to the fact that the contract had already been let.

It was explained by Ald. R. E. Foote that representations to this effect has already been made to the federal minister of public works by the regional committee of the National Construction Council. The minister had pointed out that Dominion taxpayers were paying for the work and that in their interests the lowest tender should be accepted. The lowest tender was received from outside.

GRITS ALIGN BIG ARRAY OF CANDIDATES

Middle June Election Prospects Bring New Zeal

With the rapid approach of the next provincial general election, which will be held about the middle of June, Liberal organizations throughout the province are directing their attention with renewed zeal to nominating candidates and lining up a formidable array of standard-bearers to send into the fray in support of W. R. Howson, K.C., provincial Liberal leader.

On Thursday next there will be a gathering of the Liberal clans in this city, with two conventions listed.

At 2 p.m. on March 28, the Clover Bar Liberal nominating convention will be held in Edmonton South, to select a candidate to oppose Rudolf Hennig, U.F.A. sitting member for this riding.

In the evening the Edmonton Provincial Liberal Association is holding its convention in the Masonic Temple, this city, to select six candidates to contest the available Edmonton seats. One of the greatest conventions in the history of this city is anticipated with a record breaking attendance being prepared for.

On Thursday, April 4 the Liberals of the Pembina constituency will meet at Barrhead to select a candidate to oppose George MacLachlan, sitting U.F.A. member.

The Gleichen constituency will hold its nominating convention on April 8 and the Taber constituency will hold its convention at Taber on April 12 to select a candidate to oppose Hon. J. J. MacLellan, minister of public works.

Mr. Howson is hopeful that the legislature will be prorogued in plenty of time to enable him to attend the majority of these conventions.

INDIRECT ACTION

Hon. Wesley Gordon served notice on the assembling mayors of Canadian cities that they need not expect any help from him in pressing their claim that the Dominion should relieve them of the expense of providing relief for unemployed people.

It would cost too much money, Mr. Gordon said, to set up machinery all over Canada to see that the Dominion money was not wasted. The local councils, being on the ground, can administer relief at a minimum of administrative expense, and are bound to do it while they are spending their own money, but might not be so careful about paying out Government money.

The argument is of course sound, but it does not meet the case. There are other ways in which the Dominion can take part to the cities what they have to spend on relief. It could, for instance, lend them interest free money to an amount that would off-set the share of relief expenditure they have to meet, and let the present relief arrangement stand.

That would amount to the same thing from the cities' stand-point, and still maintain local supervision over relief expenditure and local responsibility for seeing that relief money is not wasted.

WOBBLING

Belgium seems to be facing the choice of going off the gold standard or getting along without a government. Nobody apparently wants to accept the doubtful honor of trying to keep things going on the gold basis.

Since a country can get along without the gold standard but cannot get on without a government, the ultimate decision seems fairly certain. And since France has been supporting Belgium to keep it on the gold standard, without any of the burden thread." The other end of the thread, he might have added, is in London, which is taking away Belgian and French trade and also drawing away their gold.

Unwillingly but none the less surely, the gold bloc countries are being driven to the point where they will have to recognize that the usefulness of money depends upon the things it will buy, not upon the presence or absence of a store of pretty but not very valuable yellow metal. The gold bloc currencies today are those which are based on gold.

NOTHING DOING

Mr. W. R. Howson must be a constitutional optimist. He tried to run a motion through the legislature which would have cut $1100 each off the Ministerial salaries and saved the taxpayers $9000 a year. Naturally it did not get very far. The majority members killed it without delay or ceremony, and sent it to the waste basket specially kept for proposals that economy should begin at home.

Hon. George Hoadley may argue that the Ministers are not really ministering and can't, an opinion which some of the Government's supporters openly share with him. But that does not imply any willingness on their part to start cutting salaries on the ground that the service is not worth the price, or any other ground. If Ministerial salaries were slashed today, who knows but the Opposition might want to slash sessional indemnities tomorrow? There's the rub.

And whatever notions the Government members may profess on strategic occasions relative to the spending of public money, they are solid on the "sound" money principle that economy is only good when it is applied to the other fellow. No belt-tightening operations for them.

JUST "KIDDING" THE ELECTORS

Mr. Aberhart objects, and he has a right to object, that he has been put in an unfair position; a position which leaves him open to the accusation of fingering swelling to come to scratch and submit a plan of Social Credit applicable to the province, which he has declared to be entirely practicable. He does not know even yet precisely what it is the Government wants him to do, nor what the Government purposes to do if he accepts the invitation to make a hurried survey and present a plan.

If Mr. Aberhart has ground to complain, so have the public. The whole course of procedure in respect to this question has been one of bungle and blunder, if not of calculated deception; in which panic has been plainly evident but sincerity conspicuously lacking.

Major Douglas has been employed to make a two-year investigation and prepare a Social Credit plan. Mr. Aberhart is apparently asked to prepare one in two months. So, what?

Is it intended to consider Mr. Aberhart's plan when presented, with a view to putting it into operation—leaving Major Douglas to do his investigating and planning subsequently?

Is the Aberhart plan to be held in abeyance until the Douglas plan has been completed?

Is the legislature to be dissolved after the Aberhart plan has been adopted, and Major Douglas told to make his recommendations to whatever Government may be in power two years hence?

Is it to be dissolved before either of them has presented his plan, or extended until both plans are in?

With which of these two men does the Government intend to keep faith, if with either of them?

These are questions to which the public, not less than Mr. Aberhart and Major Douglas, are entitled to demand answers, and to which no answers have as yet been forthcoming.

In the absence of this information, another question arises out of the absurdly inconsistent and suspiciously clumsy way the Social Credit question has been handled. Is the object of these tactics simply to throw the electorate into confusion, and give a color of pretext for extending the term of the present legislature another three years?

Mr. J. W. Leedy, a former Governor of the state of Kansas, had been a resident of Edmonton for a quarter of a century, and his going will be regretted by a very wide circle of acquaintances, to whom his genial smile and kindly word were always welcome. Mr. Leedy had positive, and not unanimously-accepted views on political and economic subjects, but he had also the Divine gift of being able to present his views clearly and forcefully without sacrificing the respect or friendship of those who differed with him.

Poems That Live

THE SONGS I SING

The songs I sing at morning
I never sing at eve;
Oh, not through any scorning,
For tears regret may leave;
But that our radiant pleasures
Suit not the shadowed hour,
For which I have such measures
As mourn the withered flower.

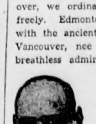

The songs I sing at twilight
I never sing at morn;
I would not mar the highlight
With any note forlorn;
My path made gay and sunny,
With joy I fill my heart;
The hyssop from the honey—
I keep them wide apart.

The Passing Show

By J. S. COWPER

With the excitement of the vice-regal visit over, we ordinary mortals can now breathe freely. Edmonton did itself proudly, vieing with the ancient aristocracies of Toronto and Vancouver, nee Gastown, in expressing the breathless admiration we free and suffering people of the west feel for the retiring Governor-General and the lady whom the City Fathers acclaimed as his "consort," remarking upon her "affability and dignity in such an exalted station."

J. S. Cowper

Altogether it was an occasion for mutual felicitations. The girls on the social pages rhapsodised about the grace and regal appearance of her ladyship in the described arrangement of drygoods and animal skins, and that people's tribune, Joe Clarke, expressed his gratitude for my lord Bessborough's "sympathetic understanding of our problems and ideals." In turn His Excellency assured Joe that during the anxious years of his vice-regal service he had been sustained and encouraged by the knowledge that Joe and his kind were thinking of him with deep affection. With stomachs well lined with food and ears resounding with expressions of deep gratitude for the vice-regal presence, the vice-regal understanding of our problems and the vice-regal sympathy, the vice-regal party with its military aides departed on the three vice-regal special cars, and the flub-dubbery came to an end.

Their Excellencies no doubt think they are seeing Canada. Except for the scenery from their car windows, they see nothing of the real life of Canada. Canada is not a collection of over-dressed and under-dressed people of leisure, clicking their heels and springing to attention. It is not a round of banquets and illuminated addresses and fulsome expressions of abasement. It is a place of toil and hardship and suffering, redeemed by the independence of spirit, of its toiling people, who refuse to be overwhelmed by the tragedy of their lot.

I think I saw more of the real life of Canada in the four days I spent last week up the Coal Branch among the miners and railroad workers than their Excellencies have seen in all the years they have been wined and dined and ceremonialized in Canada.

What a wonderful thing it would be if we could get a Governor-General who would take time off each year to live among the suffering, toiling people, as a real prince—Gautama Buddha—once did, or as Edward, Prince of Wales, shows disposition to. What a marvellous experience it would be to hob-nob with railroad workers in cabooses, to toil with a threshing gang, to spend a few days in the sweat-shops of eastern Canada, to answer the "come and get it" of a cookie in a northern lumber camp or mine, or to don oilskins and haul on a codline on the Newfoundland banks, or on a seine haul on the west coast with the little craft digging her nose into the seas.

What effect would it have on him? The job, of course, is a figure-head position, shorn of executive initiative. Like His Majesty whom he represents, the Governor-General can only act on the advice of his constitutional advisers. Sometimes it puts him in a curious position, as when at the opening of the present session of Parliament he was called upon to read as his Speech from the Throne the political manifesto which Premier Bennett wrote and put in his hands. A knowledge of the real life of Canada might not affect his governmental utterances by a single sentence. It would affect his informal utterances plenty. He'd probably have headed off Mayor Clarke's blandiloquence and steered the speech-making into the realities of life.

It must be very tiresome to a Governor-general to be forever surrounded by obsequiousness and flunkeyism. He'd probably be glad to swap a few reams of the flummery for a few honest expressions.

Years ago I met some laboratory work with an industrial chemist, Mr. S. E. Oliver, who for many years, both in this country and in England, acted as industrial adviser for Earl Grey—one of the ablest and most esteemed Governors-General Canada has had.

Oliver told me about a trip out from his ranch near Nelson, B.C., with Earl Grey and a small party. They were out several days, roughing it, inspecting timber claims and mining properties. Through mischance some of the supplies they were to pick up on the return journey did not arrive. For the last couple of days they were on short rations. He told me they stopped a few miles out of Nelson to make their last lunch out of the last of the grub—a can of pumpkin. Earl Grey had to take his out of an empty tomato can. After the meagre lunch, Oliver approached Grey to ask him if he wanted to make an immediate start for town, where a good meal might be obtained.

"No! No!" said Grey, still holding fast to tomato can in his hand. "Let's stay here as long as we can. You don't know what a relief this is to me, to get away from the routine of official life and enjoy some freedom."

For over an hour he lingered, sitting in the sunlight, drinking in the scene. With reluctance, like a man returning to prison, he finally gave the word to resume the tramp, and return to his official duties as Governor-General.

How refreshing it would have been if His Excellency could have said, "Look here, Mr. Mayor, let's cut out the nicey-nicey talk. Never mind any illuminated address. Tell me what's troubling you out here."

What an earful Joe could have given him about conditions that need remedying if Alberta is to go ahead and people are to retain affection for their country and for the Crown —youths in relief camps, university graduates told by the premier to hunt pick-and-shovel jobs, citizens losing their homes, the provinces borrowing at interest to pay interest, farmers hit by "sound money" and unable to remain solvent.

You can understand Marie Antoinette, told that the Paris mobs lacked bread, asking, "Why don't they eat cake?"

Bunions Are Preventable

By DOCTOR FRANK McCOY

Whoever invented the shoe with the pointed toe let the civilized foot in for a lot of misery, including bunions. You may have seen someone with a round hole cut out of the side of the shoe; this is sometimes done to relieve pressure on painful bunions which usually occur at the base of the large toe. A bunion may become swollen and inflamed and cause intense pain of walking, or it may grow slowly larger without such discomfort. It causes distortion and disfigurement of the foot and, once a large bunion has formed, it is likely to remain and cause pain for many years. Occasionally, rheumatic toxins settle in a bunion and the pain becomes sharper before rainy or cold weather.

Dr. F. McCoy

The way in which a bunion develops is as follows: In between the hard bones of the toe and the strong tendon which moves it, nature has provided a device so that the tendon may slip easily over the bone without friction. This device is in the shape of a small sac inside of which is a lubricating fluid which is smooth, as gelatine or gravy. This arrangement, called a bursa, separates the tendon from the bones. However, if the bursa is injured through pressure from a tight pointed shoe or from a blow, it may become inflamed and lose its property of secreting fluid. Then the two surfaces become dry and when moved over each other, pain occurs. Such an inflammation is termed bursitis and, when the bursa becomes involved is one of those in the big toe, this special kind of bursitis is called a bunion. The large toe no longer points straight ahead but is cramped over toward the second toe. A similar bursitis may happen to one of the bursae of the other toe joints, but the big toe is attacked more often than the others.

The first step in the treatment is to properly fit the foot with a shoe having a round toe and flat heel. If you cannot obtain such a shoe in an ordinary shoe store you may have to go to a special orthopedic store where the shoes are fitted according to the shape of the feet. A local treatment to relieve the pain is to use hot compresses or hot foot baths containing some epsom salts for about fifteen minutes twice a day. Cutting a slit or hole in the side of the shoe may lessen the discomfort. Rubbing the foot and bathing it first in hot and then in cold water will also help. It may be a good plan to relieve the foot by walking around at home in either the stocking feet or loose slippers.

Bunions sometimes become quite serious and may finally stop the movement of the toe or they may contain pus. Whenever such complications appear to be present, the best plan is to consult a foot specialist, or chiropodist who will be best able to advise about the treatment after he has examined the foot. Bunions are entirely unnecessary afflictions and may be avoided by wearing the right kind of shoes which give the big toe plenty of room.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

QUESTION: N. Walter F. writes: "My brother works long hours in an office. He eats his heartiest meal at the noon hour and then is supposed to be back at work in an hour. He doesn't have much out-door exercise. Is this sleep necessary?"

ANSWER: Your brother is eating too much at his noon meal. He feels sleepy afterwards. It is generally better to eat a small meal at noon and never advisable to eat such a large quantity of food at any meal in the day which will produce sleepiness. It is better to have the noon meal the smallest of the day. He should get some exercise. Walks after work are good.

QUESTION—E. G. asks: "What are the causes and symptoms of colitis? I think I am in the first stages, and am entirely ignorant of what I should do. At times I am very lightheaded and weak."

ANSWER—The symptoms you write of are often found with colitis; there are also many other symptoms in this disorder, and if I were to write about them all it would fill a book. An x-ray examination of your intestines would be the most accurate method for determining the degree of colitis which exists. Nearly everyone who is not perfectly well has some degree of colitis, which simply means inflammation of the colon.

Horoscope

By MARY BLAKE

On March 27 someone may try to impose on you, so be prepared to stand up for your rights. You may be the beneficiary of a generous impulse on the part of a friend, but be careful not to impose on his good nature. Money may come to you in an unexpected manner. Business prospects should be unusually promising on this date.

Married and engaged couples, as well as those with matrimonial aspirations, should be careful a gossiping tongue does not cause them to jump to a wrong conclusion.

If a woman, and March 27 is your birthday, you are fortunate in your life, so do not make yourself a slave to duty. There is such a thing as being over conscientious, and needlessly sacrificing yourself to selfish demands. It is very important that you learn to conserve your energy, and one way is to stop worrying over trifles.

You should be very happy married, as home life is essential for your complete contentment.

The child born on March 27, generally, until it has passed school age, is inclined to want its own way, so a reasonable amount of discipline is important.

If a man, and March 27 is your natal day, you may advance your own interests, if you do not reject friendly advice too readily. While it is not wise to accept or to believe everything told you, to be overly skeptical is likely to prove poor judgment.

On This Date

A Day in Canadian History —o— By FRED WILLIAMS

On this date in 1885, fifty years ago, the embers of rebellion broke into full blaze on the Saskatchewan.

Riel and Dumont had, a few days before, captured some stores at St. Laurent and taken some civilian prisoners. When this news reached Major Crozier at Fort Carlton he despatched Thomas MacKay, an English half breed, to Batoche to parley with Riel and see if peace could not be preserved.

The parley was of no avail. Riel told MacKay to return to Crozier and tell him that if Fort Carlton was not surrendered it would be attacked. There was a brief stay, but on the morning of the 26th Crozier sent Sergeant Stewart with a small detachment to secure the goods in the store of one Mitchell. When near Duck Lake this party was met by Dumont who forbade them to proceed. Stewart sent word back to Crozier, who at once advanced with a party of about 100 men.

One of the scouts, Ernest Todd, of Ottawa, was fired upon. Instead of returning the fire, Crozier sought a parley, disastrous tactics as it turned out. While he was waiting the rebels sought to surround his force. Crozier saw this and returned the rebels' fire. The skirmish lasted for over half an hour and was most disastrous. There was no possibility of advance through the deep snow. Nine Prince Albert volunteers and three policemen were killed and about 25 wounded. Crozier ordered his men to retire to Fort Carlton, which was done. Half an hour after his arrival there Colonel Irvine arrived with a considerable force, but it was decided to abandon Fort Carlton, and its ruins became the rebels' headquarters, for the fort caught fire before the withdrawal was complete.

This engagement cast the die. Canada had to send troops to put down the rebellion. It was the first time that the authority of the Mounted Police in the vast country they had to patrol was challenged, and it was necessary to convince the halfbreeds and Indians that the white's sovereignty must be preserved. It was, but at a heavy cost, though the rebellion had its compensations by developing a national spirit and a remarkable harvest since the men who eastern Canada who went out to fight for the flag returned and preached the gospel of the greater Canada which was awaiting development. So the rebellion was not altogether a misfortune.

Those killed at Duck Lake were Constables G. Gibson, George P. Arnold and M. K. Garrett, of the Mounted Police, and these from the Prince Albert volunteers: Lieut. Morton, a farmer from Bruce county, Ontario; A. N. R. Markley, from Red Deer; S. C. Elliott, a son of Judge Elliott, of London, Ont.; William Napier, from Edinburgh; Reginald Robert Middleton, from Prince Edward Island; Daniel McKenzie and Charles Henry, from Portage la Prairie, Daniel McPhail, of Prince Albert. Alexander Fisher, a young Englishman; William Blakey, of Orkney, and Joseph Anderson, a loyal halfbreed.

The wounded were: Captain Moore (who lost a leg), Charles Newitt, A. Macnab, Alexander Stewart, Inspector J. Scott, Corporal Gilchrist, S. F. Gordon, A. W. Smith, J. J. Wood and A. Miller.

Current Comment

SWAMPED WITH DEBT

The Rhodes Budget, presented yesterday, is chiefly remarkable for the amazing admission that for five years the Bennett Government has sat down and calmly watched the national debt increase by $600,000,000 and the national interest payments climb $14,000,000 every year.

Equally amazing is the cool assumption that the situation is "being studied."

It is true that the budget speech emphasizes the importance of a National Loan Board. With this it was most emphatically not concerned.

Time and time again The Vancouver Sun has urged that a National Loan Board. With this clean and sensible control of borrowing that will put an end to contractual competition in terms among the federal, provincial and municipal governments in which the same poor taxpayer pays the shot for all three sets of obligations.

We still feel that a National Loan Board is the one way out.

But what has the Bennett Government been doing for these five years that debt has been piling up to a point where the country is virtually swamped under it?

It has been spending some $480,000,000 a year, a sum only slightly less than the $544,000,000 value of the total field crop in Canada.

In those five years, it has watched debt increases roll up to a figure that EXCEEDS the value of the national field crop by $125,000,000.

And today it casually intimates that those increases are "being studied."

The budget has its good points. The imposition of a surtax of 2 to 10 per cent on all incomes in excess of $14,000 follows the natural and inevitable trend that additional revenue must be secured from those most able to pay it.

The discontinuance of the gold premium tax is also admirable because it releases that source of revenue to the provinces where it belongs.

The reduction of the liquor tax, too, should at least mean that consumer must benefit, will doubtless act as a safeguard against volumes of bootlegged liquor from United States.

But these items, excellent as they are, are mere housekeeping tittivations beside the larger issue of a government, be it Conservative, Liberal or anything else, sluggishly permitting for five tedious years a colossal debt accumulation which in its increases alone hangs an additional burden or $60.90 around the necks of every man, woman and child in the Dominion.

Belated as it is, the National Loan Board suggestion is the obviously sensible step.

Let's have less "studying." Mr. Bennett, and more action on it.

—Vancouver Sun.

The Mail Bag

GET MONEY WORKING

Editor Bulletin: May I use space in your much read "Mail Bag" to comment on the subject of Social Credit? The intense public interest in this subject seems to arise from the conviction that economic scarcity in the midst of plenty is criminal and should not continue, and as the governments are not addressing themselves to a solution, the banks admitting they cannot cause but only follow a revival of industry, the masses naturally look to those who offer them a definite way out.

To the writer the idea of periodic cash payments to all sufficient to supply the necessities of life is humane and would go a long way to replenish the ever drying up well of production and turn back the ever increasing flood of want and scarcity. To many this sounds absurd; however, there is much to commend the monthly or periodic payment to all adults.

The equivalent of a monthly payment is already being made to a section of the population—namely those on relief. True this is given as charity and because of its lack of universal application is humiliating. It is further true that the recipients of relief contribute very little to the real national wealth unless such things as pushing heavy lawn mowers and taking grass from the cracks in the side walks is creation of wealth. The fact that no real wealth is created is not the fault of the man on relief as he generally is ready and willing

SILKEN SPINDLES

By Laura Lou Brookman

BEGIN HERE TODAY

GALE HENDERSON, pretty and 23, works in a silk mill. She and her 15-year-old brother, PHIL, support their invalid father.

STEVE MEYERS, who also works in the mill, asks Gale to marry him. She promises to give him an answer in a few days.

Gale goes skating, breaks through the ice and is rescued by BRIAN WESTMORE, whose father, now dead, built the mill. Brian has come home after two years in Paris to enter the mill. Gale disappears before he learns her name.

VICKEY THATCHER, daughter of ROBERT THATCHER, general manager of the mill, schemes to capture Brian.

Gale goes on an errand for a neighbor, MRS. O'CONNOR, which takes her into the country. It is a stormy night and she misses the return bus. Brian comes along and takes her home. Steve is there, waiting for her. Gale tries to tell Steve that Brian wants to improve conditions for the mill employees. Steve scoffs at this.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXIV

IT WAS an hour after lunch time. Sunshine came through the high windows into the great, gray room where machines, row on row, were pounding and roaring. Spindles whirled and hands moved up and down. Gale, bending to reach a bobbin, did not see Clyde Fisher coming toward her.

She looked up quickly as she heard his voice. "You're wanted at the front," he told her. "Miss Groves. Know where her office is?"

Gale said that she did.

"You can go now," Fisher told her. "But see that you don't waste any time getting back."

Gale walked down the long corridor and turned to the right. Miss Groves was known as the "personnel director." Gale knew little about her except that she interviewed new girls before they came to work and asked them questions, some of them embarrassing. Miss Groves had come to the mill since Gale started to work there and Gale had never been to her office.

But a summons from "up front" was a bad omen. What could it mean? Gale remembered that Pole had been called to Miss Groves' office once — that time her sister was taken sick.

Suddenly the girl's heart beat faster. Her father! Could anything be wrong? Surely not. No, she wouldn't believe it—she wouldn't!

She walked more rapidly. If her father was suddenly worse—or anything had happened to Phil! There were accidents in the mill sometimes. She'd seen Art Morini taken away with his arm crushed so that it had to be cut off. And there was the Frasier boy—

Breathlessly Gale opened the door of the personnel director's office. It was an attractive office with a green rug on the floor and chintz curtains over the Venetian blinds. There was a bookcase and several chairs and on the left, near the window, a mahogany desk on which were books and papers and a slender vase containing two roses.

The woman at the desk sat at the desk wore a blue dress with white at the throat and cuffs. She was a trifle stout and the way her hair was fluffed out about her face seemed a bit too young for her. She had a round face and a high-ridged nose on which were perched spectacles. It wasn't a disagreeable face unless you noticed the lines about the father thin lips.

She glanced up from the letter she was reading to the girl in the doorway. "Yes—" she said crisply, "what is it?"

"Are you Miss Groves?"

"I am."

"I'm Gale Henderson. Mr. Fisher said you wanted to see me—"

"Oh—Gale Henderson. Yes." The personnel director's manner unbent slightly. "Yes, I did want to see you. Sit down, won't you? In that chair—there."

Miss Groves returned to her letter and Gale sat in the chair beside the desk. She felt relieved. It couldn't be an accident or anything that had happened at home, she was sure. Miss Groves wouldn't have kept her waiting if it had been anything like that.

But why was she here? Gale looked about the room. There was a low stand with growing plants before the window. There were pictures on the walls. One of them was a framed photograph of a seen before—a country scene with a lonely road appearing into the distance and bordered on both sides. The growing plants and the pictures and the other furnishings made this room seem homelike. It would be pleasant, working in a room like that, away from the noise and machinery—

Miss Groves put down the letter then and sorted through some cards on her desk and picked up one. "You name," she said, glancing at the card, "is Gale Henderson?"

"Yes."

"And you've been employed in the mill for two years?"

"Yes, but a little more than that now."

Miss Groves turned her lips and studied the card, then went on, though Gale had not spoken. "You live in the mill village, do you not?"

"Yes."

"With your father and brother?" Gale nodded.

"Are there any other members of the household?"

"No."

"Your brother works in the mill, too, I believe."

Gale said that he did.

Miss Groves laid the card on her desk. "What I have to say to you, then, went on, "is, of course, just between ourselves. We have our little talks here—my girls and I—and what happens in here are sealed." Miss Groves smiled, a smile which the Gale was somehow repellent. "I like to think of myself as our 'Confidence' because it is here I learn how to know my girls and they learn to know me. I don't believe you've been here before, Gale, have you?"

"No."

"No," we must get acquainted. I want to be friends with all the girls in this great mill. All of them! There are so many ways in which we can help each other. I want them to come to me with their little secrets and their problems and know that I will help them. You see, I love girls so! I feel that it is a great privilege I have here, coming in touch with so many young lives. Wonderful young lives! Youth is such a wonderful thing, my dear. Don't you think so?"

"I suppose it is," Gale agreed.

Miss Groves put a hand on the girl's arm. "Of course it is. There's nothing in the world so wonderful as Youth. And you have it. You're young. I want you to tell me your problems, my dear."

"But, Miss Groves—"

"Now, now! Of course you have problems. Everyone has his or her problems and it does us good to talk them over. That's why we have our 'Confi-corner.' Such a lovely young girl was here sitting in the same chair you're sitting in, half an hour ago. She came to me because she wanted advice and I gave it to her. It seems some of the girls she works with have taken up some very dangerous ideas. Dangerous for themselves and for others! They've talked to this girl, tried to make her dissatisfied with conditions in the mill, telling her the workers are underpaid and the hours too long and I don't know what all.

"She didn't know what to do. She heard there was going to be a meeting to organize the mill workers in opposition to the company. These girls either insisted she must come to the meeting. She was afraid of what might happen if she didn't go—and of what might happen if she did. Night after night she worried about it and finally she did the right thing—she came to me. Do you know what I told her?"

Gale shook her head.

"I told her to go to the meeting and hear what was said there. I told her the best way she could help these other employes was to let me know what is going on. Because it's my work to help our girls, even when they're in the wrong. But how can I help them unless I know just such things? I told her she and I would work together to stamp out this dangerous, un-American propaganda. She left me, completely relieved, that she'd done the right course and knows it."

Miss Groves looked at Gale and went on in her purring voice. "You see how a few words at the right time can mean everything? We aren't going to let employes of this mill stray into dangerous radicalism. We're going to keep our great big family happy and intact. Tell me," her eyes narrowed, "do you know of any such meetings that have been held?"

Gale thought of Leota Boller. Leota had said there was going to be a meeting—but not that there had been one.

"No, Miss Groves."

"Has anyone asked you to join a group with the idea of opposing the company?"

"No."

Miss Groves sighed. "I'm glad to hear it," she said. "Of course it's important to know how far this disloyalty has gone. Frankly, I was worried. I called you in because I knew you were one of our steady, reliable employes. I'm sure you understand that rebellion of this sort will demand discipline. The company will be obliged to deal with those who defy them. And it distresses me because I love young people and I know that underneath, none of them are really wrong-headed. They only make mistakes."

Gale shifted uncomfortably. She remembered Clyde Fisher had said, "Don't worry. She'll be getting back." He would be angry because she had stayed so long. And why did she have to be there, listening to Miss Groves? How could she get away?

The personnel director went on slowly. "A bright girl—a girl who keeps her eyes open—learns a great many things. And I'm sure you're a bright girl. If you have anything to report, from time to time, I hope you'll come to see me. I assure you I can make it—well, shall we say, to your advantage? Can I count on you, Gale?"

to contribute his services to the creation of real wealth if given a chance.

A considerable portion of our population not on relief should be receiving help as their children are particularly undernourished. The fact that the per capita daily consumption of milk in this city is below a pint is evidence of this and is indicative of a condition which the future will need to reckon with. As a matter of necessity the monthly relief allowance or national dividend as now paid should be extended to include a far greater number than it does in practice. When the extension is made a very large part of the population will be receiving from the government monthly sufficience allowances. One does not need to go much further in numbers to include the whole population of the state.

The question then arises what would be the result of all members of the state receiving a minimum monthly dividend from the government. What effect would it have on production, consumption, payment of debts, etc? As conditions now exist in the economic field in Canada many benefits should take from this pouring of extra money into the economic system.

In the first place the use of extra money nationally created by the government and not borrowed would immediately offset the evils of deflation. The fact that the 1926 dollar has a purchasing power today of anywhere from $1.40 to $1.80 in terms of commodities would cease. Holders of money would thus in time surrender the unearned increment which belongs to the people.

Considerable money will need to be poured into the system in order to pay to the masses this unearned increment which has passed into the hands of the holders of money or rights to money. If this unearned increment was wiped out there would then be no further necessity for criticism of such things as the purchasing power of cabinet ministers' salaries, which are the same today as they were in 1928.

Secondarily the use of further sums of money, will remove the spread between debt levels and the present price levels of producers commodities. As conditions now are there is no possibility of the prime producer of this country, the farmer, being able to pay his debts so long as the price level of his products are so far below the level at which they were at the time he incurred the bulk of his debt. The source of the farming problem is, no doubt, the fact of the spread between prices today and prices at the time when his debts were incurred.

Thirdly it is necessary that there should be sufficient money put into circulation to make the amount of money equal to the amount of purchasable commodities, then that which is produced could be consumed. Considerable money needs to be created in order to offset the amount which was destroyed by banks calling in their loans.

Fourthly any agency which will bring about abundance of money will remove the necessity of reducing interest rates and as a result the necessity of breaking contracts for payment of definite rates would therefore be removed.

The foregoing are only a few of the advantages which would result from the creation of further currency rightly distributed on the same among the citizens. As intimated, money to carry through such a proposal could be supplied by the Dominion government by its judiciously using its printing press. This, of course, is contrary to all so called sound economic practices. However, we cannot overlook the fact that a large portion of the population under present conditions can never again be able to live and must be taken care of.

In addition we must counteract deflation and turn despair into hope. A procedure which will bring more faces to the light of fure, and cause the masses to move forward is of endless value in itself. The enormous increases in turnover of commodities resulting from extra medium of circulation is a big factor to reckon with. A consciousness on the part of all that they are part of the state and not objects of charity creates pride and moves them to be contributors. Production can become natural and desirable.

A unified action on the part of the masses can accomplish the impossible. We witnessed this during the war and we can witness the same again if we call upon the masses after removing fear and glamour. Such moves first in thought and man is the mass. GUY PATTERSON, Edmonton, Alberta.

Home Science School Draws Crowds To The Empire Theatre Tuesday

March winds sweep clean, preparing the way for spring fashions and stirring up spring appetites. Crowds of Edmonton women, alert to the changing season and ready to absorb new ideas for the welfare of the family, gathered in the Empire Theatre Tuesday afternoon for the opening of the Canadian School of Home Science. Speaking nightly at the school and its work in Canada, and of its director, Miss Frances Thompson, well known home science specialist, Mr. H. D. Ainlay, acting mayor, opened the three-day sessions. He referred as well to the enterprise of The Edmonton Bulletin in bringing the school to this city. The curtain opened on such a kitchen as woman dream about, fitted with modern equipment designed to save steps and time, and to make the work of the household a joy instead of drudgery. Yet how simple and accessible it all was. The light poured in through gay Swiss curtains over one of the new metal sinks, and above the working tables at either side, rows of shining and creamy closed-in cupboards were placed at a convenient height, and yet out of the way. Creamy metal was used throughout, in working and every electric device for the convenience of the worker. Garbed in her spotless white uniform, Miss Thompson immediately received the confidence and interest of the gathering, as she commenced in her interesting and witty manner to go about the business of the school. Many new recipes were demonstrated in deft and simple manners, bringing to home cookery and kitchen management the scientific and yet very easy methods of the present day. Altogether it was a stimulating and highly entertaining, as well as educational afternoon, and the hundreds of these present left, keenly anticipating Wednesday afternoon's session, which opens at 2:30 in the Empire.

THE DAY'S PRIZES

Twelve hampers were given away as Friday's prize, each containing Lux Flakes, Lux hand soap, Rinso, Magic Baking Powder, Gainer's Lard, Surprise butter in sausages, Canadian Bakeries bread, P. Burns Co. cheese and butter, and other staple groceries.

Miss Thompson very graciously presented to a lucky woman, too, the flowers from the dining room table, and some of the delicious cooking that had been done. Table setting, home decorating, a radio, ironer, electric refrigerator, were demonstrated.

FURNITURE FROM CAMPBELL'S

A particularly pleasing point in the afternoon was reached when a short interval was allowed, and the curtain arose to reveal that the kitchen had been changed, presto, into a beautifully appointed dining room. Some of the loveliest of modern furniture was provided by the Campbell Furniture Company for this room, and in it Miss Thompson demonstrated many of the newer hostess and home management ideas, away from the atmosphere of the kitchen.

Announcement was made of the Grand Prizes, to be presented Thursday evening at the final session of the school. The first prize will be a choice of a G. E. all wave Radio, a G. E. Washer or a De Luxe Vacuum Cleaner. Second prize will be a 34-piece set of Community Plate, Berkeley Square Design, in a tarnish-proof cresented chest. Six Cheese Servers, community plate, will be awarded each day.

A few of the many recipes demonstrated by Miss Thompson Tuesday afternoon in the General Electric kitchen were—

EGGS IN PEPPER RINGS

2 hard boiled Eggs; 1 tablespn. Gelatine; 1 tablesp. cold Water; ¼ cup Tomato Juice; ¼ teasp. Salt; ½ teasp. Sugar; Bay Leaf; 2 large Green Peppers; ½ teasp. chopped Onion.

Soak gelatine in the cold water for a few minutes. Put tomato juice, onion, salt, sugar and bay leaf into saucepan. Bring to boil and boil gently for five minutes. Pour this mixture onto gelatine and stir until dissolved. Remove bay leaf from peppers. Place a cold shelled egg inside each pepper and fill space around with cold tomato mixture. Place in G.E. Refrigerator to chill thoroughly. With a very sharp knife cut across peppers in one-quarter inch slices. Serve on crisp lettuce as individual salads or as a garnish for cold meat.

STUFFED ORANGES

(A most attractive dessert)

1 tablesp. granulated Gelatine; ¼ cup cold Water; ½ cup Apricot Juice; 1 cup Apricot Pulp; ½ cup Orange Juice; ½ cup Lemon Juice; 1 teasp. grated Orange Rind; 3 tablesp. White; ½ cup Sugar.

Soak gelatine in cold water for few minutes. Add hot apricot juice and stir until the gelatine dissolves. Add apricot pulp, first putting cooked dried apricots through fine sieve. Add sugar. For garnishing orange juice cut fruit in half, squeeze juice out carefully so that the skins are not broken and scrape pulp and membrane from skins so that they may be used as cups for the finished dessert. Then add the fruit juices and grated orange peel. Place this mixture in G. E. Refrigerator and let begin to thicken; then fold in stiffly-beaten egg whites. Pour into the orange cups and chill. Decorate with cherry or mint leaf.

AN UNUSUAL MIXED GRILL

4 Lamb Chops; 8 Gainers' Pork Sausages; 2 Bananas; 4 slices Pineapple.

Peel bananas and slice lengthwise. Sprinkle with lemon juice and sugar and dot with butter. Drain the pineapple slices, sprinkle with brown sugar and dot with butter. Arrange on rack of Hotpoint broiling pan the sausages and chops. Cook until all are brown. Turn chops and sausages as required.

Dr. A. R. Osborn was guest speaker at the meeting of Fifth Auxiliary of St. Presbyterian Church on Thursday. There was a good attendance of members present. Final arrangements were made for an Easter tea and sale on April 16. Mrs. J. R. MacIntyre and Mrs. H. B. Matheson were hostesses for the afternoon tea.

QUIETUDE

I try to learn a lesson from the flowers.
I never notice that they strain or strive.
And yet they are so fragrant and so lovely.
So quietly alive.

Their clear eyes view unfathomed heights of azure.
And they are still in wonder and delight.
Tis we who waste our hurried years unseeing.
Till death remove our sight.

Fascinating Story Of The Stage Is Told

CANADA is awakening to a theatre consciousness, and the world of the stage, generally, is on the verge of a great Renaissance of the Drama, heralding the dawn of this new day in society interested audience, Catherine Hale, brilliant lecturer, poet and critic, gave a vivid talk on the modern drama in the first of her series of literary lectures in the Macdonald hotel Monday evening. "We Canadians are not always the most influencial agents of the stage, said Miss Hale, and it was for this reason that she would speak largely of those plays and playwrights which had influenced the theatre and often brought in their wake a tremendous flow of drama along a definite line. Experiments back of the modern drama, the undercurrents hidden deeply in the action and the feelings, she also traced, to a fascinated group, as moved swiftly from the old to the modern in plays, and from the great movements in Germany, France, London and New York.

In the last five years the cinema has become a great artistic force in the drama. Tremendously important, both in the cinema and on the stage, is the new chiorography of the ballet, the bringing together of dancing, music, color design, to make the stage a great symbolic figure. No longer does the smaller domestic drama hold sway, but that which is torn and tossed. Politics, religion, the greater movements of the mass are the theme of today's productions. Europe is coming to America, in the theatre. The great "after-dark" successes of the season have been the plays of the Dublin Gate theatre, the Copley Gate Opera Company, and "Escape Me Never" with the superb artiste, Elisabeth Bergner. There is a new internationalism of the stage, and all that is needed to complete the revolution in the drama is a major "row" in the theatre . . . a play that stirs people as the plays of Shakespeare did, and as those of Bernard Shaw and Ibsen did. In passing, Miss Hale deplored the present attitude of the young critics in falling upon the fading form of Bernard Shaw and picking his bones, when he has been so tremendous and vital a force in the theatre of the generation. He had paved the way for the presentation of Ibsen, and when Nora banged the door in "The Doll's House" for the first time, a shudder went through England. When Czecho's classic, "The Insect Comedy" was presented 25 years ago, most of the audience got up and walked out.

THE REALISTS REIGN

Before the Hitler regime in Germany the expressionists and realists fought for supremacy, and out of their struggle came our own realists, and Noel Coward with his "Vortex." This clever young writer launched a whole generation of young men in black silk pajamas emerging from bedrooms to play a piano on the left of the stage, with that play of post-war disillusionment.

"WITHIN THE GATES"

Today, symbolism in all its grandeur, Elegance and beauty, is back on the stage, and the great play of the hour, Sean O'Casey's "Within the Gates," was analyzed in its ample. Miss Hale described it at length, its beauty, truth and imagery, and its magnificent symbolism. It had been banned in Toronto and Boston, causing something of a stir.

Little Theatre is one of the great new factors behind the arising dramatic consciousness, and its importance throughout the dominion was emphasized, the speaker quoting James Mark Thorndike as to the value of the movement as a research laboratory of the stage. Printy plays, depending on dialogue completely for their effect, and the charming plays of Noel Coward, that master of light chatter, were discussed, and the speaker concluded by reading in her able and fascinating manner two playlets from Noel Coward.

T. Eaton Co; Opens Spring Fashion Show

Although the younger set led the T. Eaton Company parade at the fashion display in the main dining room of the Macdonald hotel which opened on Tuesday afternoon, Miss Miss Shirley Temple made her bow, in a red gingham frock, and sang the lollipop song, the utmost charm of small girls and little lads in the very newest of spring dress-up togs for playtime suits ended the display of clever street ensembles, gowns for tea, dinner or evening. And then this parade as quite one of the smartest of a season of such affairs. The children did come into their own, though, for lads in trim oxford grey suits, and girls in smocked blouses with kiltie skirts, tweed reefers and berets, or filmy party frocks were as smart as could be. Girls and Brownies, a Scout and a Girl Guide brought the children's part of the program to an end, taking a salute with the help of a military air as their trig outfits demanded.

The children's things were modelled by pupils of the Kinney School of Dancing, and a number of small girls from the school were delightful in a fan dance.

Then came the display of street and sports ensembles, fine linen frocks and evening gowns that tantalize the spring shopper as she passes the windows. These ranged a tailleur of imported tweed with a dashingly smart cape was shown —for long spring evenings as that one could see just how smart the suit will be with short, closely-fitting under-jacket might be.

A three-piece swagger in reddish brown tweed, worn with a crush felt hat of brown velvet with red trim and a military air as their trig outfits demanded.

A three-piece swagger in reddish brown tweed, worn with a crush felt hat of brown velvet with red trim was both practical and smart. Something new was the Regency blue suit featuring a double cape, and worn with a clever Dobbs model. An imported wool crepe was in olive green, had a short full-back coat, and one of the cleverest of the dressy suits was of navy tweed with braid bordering the skirt of the box coat, and the sleeves, and carried out in a stand-up collar.

IN VOGUE

Named as the find of the fortnight was the Vogue suit of matalasse crepe with plaid taffeta. Standup collars were remarked in suits and frocks alike, some of the clever blouses had the newest ruched collars which give that very new dash to an ensemble.

Dark navies featured the Clarke Gable back. There were comfortable and casual tweeds, and for Cherry Ormond's kasha crepe, collared in fur was remarked. A grey lapin trotteur was worn over a dashing blue taffeta sports frock.

Dresses featured the gay new shade of geranium for street wear, many of the new printed figured silks that are an important addition to this spring's wardrobe, and the Jacqueline and Noel Coward gowns. For a dinner date the pink lace Mayfair model was perfect. Something entirely new was the embre chiffon, of floating loveliness, the color shading from warm gold to pink brown and the frock dusted with gold. A frock of Marina blue rivalled this lovely dress in charm, the jacket of the ensemble matched. Quilted pale blue satin was unusual, with a slight train at the back, and Jacquette. Another dress of period style was of navy taffeta, the flared flowing to a full skirt. The collar was of palest pink stand-up style.

HERE COMES THE BRIDE

Here comes the bride! And queenly in a full-length fashioned slarched lace gown of white with exquisite veil of point d'esprot held in place by a bridal wreath of orange blossoms, she held all eyes. Her bridal maids, frocks alike of starched lace, with pleated panels in the full skirts. They wore Juliet caps to match, and carrying armsful of flowers, the party truely echoed the peal of wedding bells.

The Ladies of Bessborough Chapter, I.O.D.E, sponsored the affair on Tuesday afternoon. The style parade took place again on Tuesday evening and be repeated on Wednesday afternoon, with the Women's Auxiliary to the Royal Alexandra Hospital as sponsors.

"SALADA" TEA

A BEDTIME STORY

Story by HAL. COCHRAN Pictures by GEORGE SCARBO

The Tinies watched the Hindu for a little while, then heard him roar. "I'm getting tired of stirring. Who will help me for a while?

"We will not find it hard, one bit, If we take turns at stirring it." "I'll do the best I can," replied wee Goldy, with a smile.

"Oh, my, not you," the Hindu said. "I'd rather have a boy, instead. You see, boys have more strength than girls. Here, Duncy, try your hand."

"Okay," replied the Tinymite. "Just watch me and you'll see a sight. I hope the bowl does not blow up. Imagine where I'd land!"

"Well, hurry," shouted Coppy. "Gee, we all would like to feel that we have had a share in this strange stunt. I'll do the stirring next."

"The whole thing may turn out a flop, but anyway, we will not stop Until the Hindu tells us to. I'm really quite perplexed."

Soon the old giant shouted, 'Say, the lads can't keep that up all day. Give me the spoon. I'll stir real fast and end it mighty quick.

"I surely hope you realize, you've promised us a big surprise. 'Twill be too bad for you, young Hindu, if we see no trick."

"Don't worry," snapped the mystic man. And then up to the bowl he ran. "Get ready for the thrill, right now, and do just as I say.

"All of you Tinies gather 'round the bowl and then flop on the ground. Don't get too close, however. Just about five feet away."

When everything was ready, they all heard the mystic fellow say some very funny words, and then he sang a funny song.

Right from the bowl smoke 'rose in air and then Tinies got a scare. The contents of the great big bowl exploded with a "bong!"

How Can Mother Make Hubby Pal With Son?

Dorothy Dix

DEAR MISS DIX—I have a son, an only child, a bright, affectionate boy of 11. I try to be mother and father both to him for he has a father in name only, but I find that I cannot make the grade alone. I need his father's help in bringing up the boy and I have not got it. My husband is a good man, nothing the matter with him except that he just seems to have no interest in his son. Never pals with him, never speaks to him unless it is to curse him and fuss at something he has done, never forgets any childish misdemeanor and brings it up on every occasion, never helps him with his lessons, but when his report isn't perfect tells him he is going to whip him if it isn't better next time. He goes fishing sometimes twice a week, but never takes the boy along. He never shows the boy any affection. What can I do to make my husband realize what a wrong attitude he is taking toward the boy, and that if he doesn't change the boy will grow up with neither love nor respect for him?

MRS. B

Answer:

It would seem that your husband is entirely lacking in all parental instinct. If that is the case nothing can be done about it. It is a natural defect and he will always feel that a child is a bore and an incumbrance. Also, it would seem that he is jealous of the boy. He resents your love for the little fellow and takes out his spleen upon him by neglecting and ill-treating him.

A great many more men are jealous of their children than we realize. Before there were children the husband was the little tin god of the household, the one the wife adored, the one she catered to, the one for whom she dressed up, the one she tried to entertain and amuse, but with the advent of the first baby all this is changed. Junior has the pedestal. He is the one who is worshiped. He is the one who is petted and caressed, whose comfort and well-being comes first and thereafter husband runs a bad second to the occupants of the nursery.

It is often said that children draw a husband and wife closer together. So it does in many cases, but in just as many others children make a cleavage between them that begins almost in the maternity ward at the hospital. Young mothers do well to take into account this jealousy of fathers of their own children and to walk warily when their first baby comes. They have reached a crisis in their married life and much of their after happiness depends on not letting their husbands see that their noses have been put out of joint and that they have rivals with whom they can never hope to cope successfully.

Besides the jealous father there is the indifferent father, who for some inexplicable reason never seems to feel any responsibility for his children or to take any interest or pleasure in them. He is the kind of man who says, "I let my wife raise the children," although he knows perfectly well it is a job that no woman can do properly single-handed. He may even know that his wife lacks the intelligence and the strength to do it, but it is a common thing to see a man who wouldn't trust his wife's judgment to buy 10 shares of stock put his children's whole future lives in her hands.

There can be no excuse for such a crime, but it brings its own just punishment. For the children who might have been fine men and women if they had had a wise and strong father to guide them and control them, grow up to be wastrels and disgrace him. The children who would have loved him if he had ever pulled with them and shown them tenderness and sympathy have no affection for him, as why should they have for one who has never shown them love? And so his old age is lonely.

You hear many fathers talk about their ungrateful children, but what have children to be grateful for to a father who hasn't even taken the trouble to get acquainted with them?

DOROTHY DIX.

"What is the correct procedure when writing on folded stationery?"

—R. H.

Answer—If the letter is two pages long, it is customary to write on the first and then the third page. If it is four pages long, one may write on the first, second, third and fourth in regular order; or the first, third, second and fourth; or the first, fourth and then open the sheet and write straight down the inside.

Groups of girls have formed anti-marriage clubs in some of the larger cities in China, pledging to commit suicide rather than marry. On marriage, the Chinese maiden becomes the slave of her husband.

"Leave Dinner in the oven?"

Of course—I'll be right over. I have an Electric Range, you know"

NO, it's no exaggeration. When your Electric Range is installed, you're free to spend your afternoons as you wish.

Slip your dinner in the oven before you leave—set the automatic timing device—and when you return, there's your meal all piping hot. Miraculous? Yes, in a way. It's a marvelous help to overworked housewives.

It seems so good that many women look for a catch in it. There isn't one. Meals are better because they're cooked with the accuracy only found in the Electric Range. Costs are low because electricity is cheap. And how wonderful all that new free time is!

What's What

Question—What is the proper way to answer a formally worded invitation to an Easter wedding? Is it necessary to send a gift if the people are not intimate friends and the invitation seems to be only a courtesy?

E. K. E.

Answer—Invitations to the church only require no answers. An invitation including a card to the breakfast must be answered promptly, accepting or declining in the third person, thus:

Edward Keith Evans
accepts with pleasure (or regrets that he is unable to accept)
Mr. and Mrs. John Smith's kind invitation for
Wednesday, April twenty-fourth

It will be noted that the wedding is not mentioned in the response. No acknowledgement of a wedding announcement need be made, nor is it necessary to send a gift. Indeed, some people mail announcements rather than invitations, not only to avoid the trouble of a large wedding but also as a token of remembrance which carries with it no obligation to send a gift in return. For that matter, all wedding gifts are customary rather than obligatory.

Young Wife—Plain linen hemstitched cloths have a two-inch border; the matching napkins have three-quarter-inch hems; these are used for informal luncheons and teas and for Sunday night suppers. Formal luncheons and "high" teas have more elaborate linens. On the bare luncheon table are placed runners or doilies (or both) of embroidered or lace-inset linen or of fine lace. When crossed runners are used in combination with matching doilies the doilies fill the intervening plate places.

Discovered! New Ways To Use Horseradish

By MARY E. DAGUE

Discovered a whole flock of new ways to use horseradish the other day and was glad as glad! Because there's a kind of tonic tang to the seasoning that I like at this time of the year. Did you ever try horseradish sauce, hot or cold, with boiled fish? It's nice.

Horseradish helps certain veal, pork and ham dishes, too. And as for many of our best-known vegetables, you'd hardly recognize them with little grated horseradish on them. Try that with spinach for instance, or green beans.

Four tablespoons of prepared horseradish, Sister Mary added to two cups of rich cream sauce does things for steamed fish! Make the sauce thicker than usually wanted for serving because the horseradish will thin it.

Horseradish cream and horseradish butter are delicious with roast beef, roast veal, baked ham and broiled fish. An attractive way to serve with baked ham for a party when the plates are served in the kitchen is to put it in a lemon cup. And sometimes I freeze the cream.

HORSERADISH CREAM

One-half cup whipping cream, 4 tablespoons prepared horseradish, 1 tablespoon prepared mustard, 1 teaspoon sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt.

Chill all ingredients as well as bowl and beater. Whip cream until firm. Add remaining ingredients and serve or put in freezing tray and freeze.

HORSERADISH BUTTER

One-half cup butter, 2 tablespoons fresh grated horseradish, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1 teaspoon sugar, ½ teaspoon salt.

Mix fresh grated horseradish, lemon juice, sugar and salt. Work butter with a fork until creamy. Beat in horseradish mixture and continue beating until thick and white.

Four tablespoons butter, ⅓ cup granulated sugar, 1 egg, ½ cup milk, 1¼ cups flour, 2½ tablespoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 6 halves of canned peaches.

Reserve white 2 eggs. Sift sugar with flour and add egg well beaten. Mix and sift remaining flour, salt and baking powder and add alternately with milk to first mixture. Put peaches in a well buttered shallow baking dish, pour over batter and bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.) for thirty minutes. Cut in squares and serve warm with maple sauce.

To make sauce beat whites of eggs until stiff. Cook syrup until it forms a soft ball when a few drops are tried in cold water or if you use a thermometer it should register 238 degrees F. Add syrup gradually to egg whites beating constantly.

Tomorrow's Menu

BREAKFAST—Orange juice, cereal cooked with dates, cream, broiled bacon, muffins, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON—New carrot, puree, toast sticks, onion sandwiches, rhubarb tapioca pudding with custard sauce, grape juice.

DINNER—Baked cottage ham, horseradish cream, mashed potatoes with marshmallows, broccoli, tomato and celery salad, cottage pudding with maple sauce, milk, coffee.

For a copy of Sister Mary's new volume, "50 Desserts," send ten cents to Special Service Bureau, Room 305, 461 Eighth Ave., New York, N.Y.

EMPIRE IDEA CARRIED OUT IN SCHOOL

The Canadian School of Home Science at the Empire Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday is not only unique in its activities, but it is thoroughly "of the Empire" in character and personnel. Frances Thompson, herself an English-woman, is a graduate of the National Training School of Domestic Science, Westminster, London, England, and a former instructress for the Education Department of the London (England) City Council. Her assistants are all Canadians; 90 per cent of the products, materials and equipment used for her lectures and demonstrations are of Canadian manufacture; all of them are of Empire origin.

Few stage successes in Canada have attracted such enthusiastic audiences as Miss Thompson's demonstrations. No other Home Economist has equalled her success in stimulating the home-making faculty of Canadian women.

Don't miss this wonderful opportunity to take a course in domestic business, while making it a pleasure! Don't fail to see the striking stage demonstration of the very latest in kitchen equipment, home appliances, laundry and household equipment, and table appointments and decorations.

Serial Bonds To Be Considered

Possibility of issuing serial bonds in future will be explored by the city, it was decided at Monday night's council meeting when Acting Mayor H. D. Ainlay asked for a report in this connection.

Under a serial bond system, the bonds are paid off in instalments over the life of the debentures. They are not met in full at maturity, with interest being paid every year, as provided by the city's present bond system.

NO PLAN TO EXTEND LIFE GOVERNMENT

Premier Denies Attempt to Prolong Reign by Special Powers

Denial that the government was contemplating or had discussed extending the life of the present legislature—the seventh in the province's history, was made on the floor of the house on Monday by Premier R. G. Reid.

On orders of the day, the premier rose and read an extract from a clipping wherein it was stated there were rumors that the government proposed to extend its life under powers it possesses.

"I want to clearly and emphatically say that the government has never considered and has never discussed the possibility of any such action," he said. "The suggestion that the government contemplates this action has no foundation on fact. And if anyone is making such suggestions, that person will have to look elsewhere than this side of the house for the source."

Gyro Club To Elect Officers

The election of the president and members to the executive will take place at the regular weekly meeting of the Gyro Club to be held in the Macdonald hotel, Tuesday evening.

In addition to the installation ceremonies, reports from the program, sport, social, convention and entertainment committees will be heard.

The evening will conclude with entertainment in the form of a revue, presented entirely by members of the club.

To Drain Fried Foods

All fried foods, like doughnuts, potatoes and croquettes, whether fried in deep fat or otherwise, should never be served without first draining off the fat. The best way to do this is to fold a paper towel. As you take each piece from the fat, lay it on the towel. As the paper is very absorbent it will remove all superfluous grease.

Minute Make-Ups

Mascara for eyelashes is used both for night and for day, but should be applied so that it is not detected. Never apply it so thickly that the lashes stick together. Every lash should stand alone.

Seek Dominion Aid For Road Building Plan

Desirability of opening negotiations with the Dominion government with a view to obtaining Dominion assistance toward the cost of a carefully planned program of highways construction in this province is advocated in a resolution placed on the legislative order paper by D. M. Duggan, provincial Conservative leader.

In support of his motion, Mr. Duggan points out that the expenditure of capital in highway construction is a sound and economic investment and highways are essential in any program of national development.

He contends that an adequate program of highway construction in Alberta is beyond the financial ability of the province and therefore Dominion assistance is necessary.

ROLLING HEALTH CLINICS NOW TO BE RESTORED

Restoration of the travelling health clinics is provided for by a $25,000 vote in provincial health departments estimates approved by the legislature on Monday. Total department estimates amount to $1,446,940, an increase of $70,579 over the previous year.

The travelling clinic was revived to a limited extent last fall, after being suspended for several years to a policy of economy on the part of the government.

In piloting his estimates through the house, Hon. George Hoadley, minister of health stated that six additional nurses would be established at outlying points this year. This largely accounts for the increase in the public health nursing branch appropriation of $45,183, an increase of $10,739 over last year.

The University hospital was voted $20,000, the same as the previous year.

The Minister announced it was planned to extend the provincial training school at Red Deer to the extent of duplicating the latest building there with a view to accommodating 30 more patients.

Warm tribute to the work of the Central Alberta Sanitorium at Keith was paid by Hugh C. Farthing, K.C., Conservative, Calgary, while a vote of $179,909 for that institution was under discussion.

URGES REBATES FOR FARM TRUCKS

Increased from $97,108 last year to $101,210 this year, estimates of the provincial secretary's department were ratified by the legislature sitting in committee of supply on Monday.

Strong protest was entered by M. J. Conner, U.F.A., Warner, and S. A. Carson, U.F.A., Sturgeon, over the discrimination against farm trucks.

Mr. Conner contended that vehicles used as farm trucks and employed for production purposes were being unfairly treated and he submitted that the gasoline tax rebate should be applicable to trucks as well as tractors. Mr. Carson thought trucks were unfairly treated.

Fred J. White, provincial Labor leader, urged that motor vehicles on highways display cards telling of their capacity load, as in case of accident, they could be checked up.

Norman Hindsley, Independent, Calgary, wondered whether the government had considered the use of permanent license plates, the same as is done in the Old Country.

Premier Reid said the situation had been investigated, but no special advantage could be found in it.

Appropriations for the motion picture censor's office were included in this department and they show an increase of $25 over last year, the total being $8,925.

Mothers still wash their children's head with brandy to prevent them from catching cold, in many rural districts of England.

Your Children -

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Years ago when I was a girl there was no drinking among high school students. True there were few students, but working on percentages there still was none. That was some time before the prohibition era too.

Parents and teachers had no problem on their hands because the young people themselves attended to it. If a young fellow (never a girl) fell from grace and tainted his breath with anything stronger than sarsaparilla he was politely dropped and kept dropped until he sweated and worked his way after long, probation back into the good graces of his fellow students.

O. R. Barton

The boys of those days were no sissies either. As I look back I remember what real chaps they were. Not a few of them now are known all over the land.

Nowadays, unless one is blind, deaf and dumb, there is every evidence of drinking among the young. Parents lie awake at night wondering where their Jim or Mary is. Maybe Jim is seventeen. Perhaps Mary is fifteen. Is it any wonder that heads get gray and hearts give out and people learn to hate the sound of a telephone bell after ten at night? Hate it and dread it?

TEACHERS EVADE PROBLEMS

And the years go on and nothing is done about it. High school principals, and teachers either do not know about it or else they feel, and perhaps rightly, that their jurisdiction over students ceases at the door. Parents shrink from publicity and fear that any undue interest on their part will mark their son or daughter. Besides parents cannot accomplish much unless they organize and put their full force behind any disciplinary measures adopted.

Anything that is done would have to have the co-operation of both schools and parents. But once started I think it would pay.

No boy or girl going to high school or any private school of precollege age has any business to be in a mile of a whisky bottle. College students, it must be presumed, are responsible for their own actions. These children are not. They need to be saved from themselves and for themselves.

Never a reformer, I am adopting a new note in this matter. What manner of country is it that permits its youth to stay out until all hours of the morning or even be present at parties where there is drinking even though they don't drink themselves? Children—think of it.

They feel pretty safe because compulsory education laws make it difficult to expel them, but it seems to me that laws can be changed and should be if it means the good of the school and the good of the child. The motor car makes it all so easy. It provides such a good alibi. And parents fall for this stuff and for the old bewhiskered gag about them being behind the times and all the kids doing it. They want to stand in right with their youngsters and let it go.

There is nothing in the world as fine as trusting your son or daughter. But there is nothing so weak or silly as being fooled or bulldozed by them. There are thousands of splendid young people who scorn the cheap and the drunken and whose parents can well be proud of them, but that does not refute the fact that others are just the opposite.

It is not their fault. It is the fault of easy-going older people who might as well hand them guns to shoot themselves as far as their safety is concerned. If right steps were taken I believe the evil could be stopped almost overnight.

Another "Boy Cowboy" Victim Of Playmates

CHESTER, N.S., March 26—Cowboy Jimmy Smith, aged six, was burned at the stake Monday but his shrieks attracted neighbors who matched him from death. His face and hands were badly scorched.

Jimmy was captured by "Indians" of about the same age and while they danced around in accepted fashion of savages, fire licked closer to the victim than they had intended. The children became frightened and screamed. Several women of the neighborhood rushed to his assistance.

DEFEAT MOVE TO "STAR CHAMBER" RELIEF COMPLAINTS

Relief Camp Strike Threat Is Heard By Legislative Group

Witness Charges Men in Provincial Camps Dragooned by Foremen and Hounded By Police

Accusations that men working in the relief camps of the province are dragooned by their foremen, "fired" if they dare to present grievances for redress, and that the police are called in to threaten them if they refuse work were made by H. Johnson, agent for the Relief Camp Workers' Association, before the Legislative Committee Tuesday morning.

That a general strike in all the relief camps is planned for the spring, unless their grievances are adjusted, was admitted by the witness to Hugh Farthing (Conservative), Calgary, as the latter brandished a multigraphed copy of The Relief Camp Worker before his eyes.

The witness produced a letter from Relief Commissioner A. A. Mackenzie, threatening to use the full force of the law and invoke the police against the men in the relief camp at Mountain Park, if they persisted in their "rebellion" and refused to go to work.

Their grievance at Mountain Park, said the witness, was because there was no medical aid furnished the men, and one of them had laid for several days without assistance while suffering from paralysis.

FURTHER INVESTIGATION

The story of a woman from Woodend who, while an expectant mother, was forced to walk 22 miles from that town to Edmonton seeking relief for family, forced to walk the same distance back again, who tramped once more the 22 miles to Edmonton and was about to walk back home again without receiving relief, when she was seized in childbirth, is to be further investigated when the committee resumes on Thursday.

Following the resignation of F. J. White (Labor, Calgary) as chairman of the committee in protest against attempts to have individual cases heard behind closed doors, A. B. Claypool (U.F.A., Didsbury) presided over the enquiry.

Strong efforts were made at the outset to have the complaints of relefers dealt with in private. A subcommittee report presented by A. L. Saunders (U.F.A.), Stettler, recommended that cases be heard in private by a sub-committee "in the interest of the complainants."

W. R. Howson, K.C., at once moved that all complainants have the option of having their cases heard in camera or in public.

SOME INVESTIGATED

"I have investigated some of these cases" he said. "There are some complainants who do not wish to have their troubles and affairs exposed in public. On the other hand there are many who desire that their grievances be ventilated in public."

R. M. McCool, U.F.A., (Cochrane) wanted representatives only to be present at the hearings but this was combatted by Mr. Howson.

"This is a democratic country", he said. "We are dealing with human beings. I think those who desire to have their complaints publicly considered should have their desires considered."

SUPPORTED BY WHITE

Fred J. White (Labor), Calgary, strongly supported him.

"This is a public issue" he said. "I have a letter today from Calgary saying that within the last two weeks two youths under 18 have taken their lives owing to hardship. The papers, out of consideration for the parents announced them as accidental deaths, but both were stark suicides.

"I am not satisfied with the attitude of the relief officials, and I think that they too should be required to testify in public and that complainants be given an opportunity to meet that evidence, and

THE INQUIRING REPORTER

Modern science has made desperate attempts to save the life of a baby born without a throat. The child, which is now five weeks old, has had a hole cut in its stomach and, being fed by this means, is expected to live. Leaving the question "Do you think that it is right to keep a child, born with such a handicap as this, alive?" the Bulletin's Inquiring Reporter gleaned the following opinions:

MRS. W. L. ROSS, president Local Council of Women: "Speaking off hand I should say it was a pity, although to save a life if at all possible seems to be the ethics of the medical profession. I do not think, however, that it seems a pity that the attending physicians should try to save the life of a child so handicapped."

C. ALLARD, 10105 Macdonald Drive: "I do not think that a child with such a handicap should be kept alive. At best it has only a thing but a life of misery before it, and should probably be far better off dead."

* * *

MISS I. A. McCUAIG, superintendent, Kiwanis Children's Aid Home: "I suppose from a scientific point of view it is a good thing to try and save the child's life, but on the other hand it could never develop into a healthy child and would most certainly have a terrible handicap should it live."

* * *

F. HESS, 10105 Macdonald Drive: "I most certainly think that every effort should be made to save the child's life. With the advances that medical science has made in recent years there is no reason at all why the child should not thrive to any nothing of the assistance to be gained in medical research."

Liberty Contest Prize Of $300 To Edmonton Entrant

Winning over thousands of other contestants in the dominion-wide 'Canadian Cities Contest" conducted in Liberty Magazine, Miss Helen Saunders, 10825 69 avenue, clever young artist of Edmonton, today received notification that she would receive the $300 cash first prize.

Running in Liberty for the past two months the contest, in which there were 130 prize winners, comprised a series of pictures with characters shown carrying on a conversation in which was to be found the clue to the names of various cities in Canada.

Two such pictures were issued in each publication, there being some 24 pictures altogether, the last issues being sufficiently difficult to tax the brain of the most experienced puzzle-solver.

Miss Saunders, who is not entirely new to the intricacies of puzzles, won the first prize in a contest conducted locally.

50th Anniversary Of Edmonton Schools Is Celebrated At Rally

Founders of City's Educational System Honored by Huge Gathering in McDougall Church on Monday.

The glories of the past glowed under the light of reminiscence as the founders of Edmonton's schools were honored at a public gathering in McDougall church Monday night in celebration of the 50th anniversary of the inauguration of Edmonton School District No. 7.

On the platform were early teachers and trustee, early inspectors, Hon. A. C. Rutherford, first premier of Alberta and first minister of education; Dr. R. C. Wallace, president of the University of Alberta; members of the present school board and members of recent boards. A large number of Edmonton old timers were present in the audience and there was a big representation from the present teaching staff. The present School Board was represented by T. S. Magee, chairman, and A. A. O'Brien, secretary.

DR. MORRISH CHAIRMAN

Dr. Walter Morrish, present board chairman, was chairman of the evening and read greetings from the Separate School Board, D. S. McKenzie, Dr. Andrew Baird, first inspector and now of Manitoba College; K. A. "Kenny" McLeod, now in Vancouver. A humorous account of the first election, when the issue was whether to tax land, was read by the chairman from an old copy of The Bulletin. Ven. Archdeacon Cornish, chaplain of the Old Timers' Association, pronounced the invocation.

Hon. Perren Baker sketched the settlement of the territory which is now Alberta, "slowly at first and then in waves". At the time of the formation of Edmonton school district it was the only organized district in the territory which is now this province, he said. There are now 3,000 districts. For the future, he said, the children must have the best in education. "All steps at improvement are useless unless the mind of man is developed to match the world in which he lives."

PAYS TRIBUTE

Walter Ramsay, early teacher here, spoke in the absence of George J. Welbourne, as the earliest surviving teacher. He dwelt on school development and paid tributes to early educators, naming especially Miss Orborne, the first lady teacher.

Hon. A. C. Rutherford, graphically described the coming of the west in the past half-century, taking his hearers through the days of the Riel rebellion, the opening of the Kootenay mining country, the Klondike gold rush.

Speaking on the present economic depression, Dr. Rutherford said he would like to see a large immigration of selected settlers placed on the lands of the province. This, he said, would make new schools, employing teachers and would give work to builders and artisans.

Alex McCauley, speaking as a pupil of the class of 1885, gave a humorous account of the "days of real sport," and of the exciting time of the Riel rebellion and the patrol of the North West Mounted Police and the Home Guard of which his father, Matthew McCauley, chairman of the first school board and Edmonton's first mayor, was a member.

INTERESTING SIDELIGHTS

William Rea, Charles H. Russell, K.C., and James A. Fife, early teachers and principals, gave interesting sidelights on the early schools and their development.

W. McKenzie, member of the first board of Strathcona S.D. No. 216, gave a brief history of South Side schools.

Dr. Wallace brought greetings from the University of Alberta which, he said, was "born and cradled in the Edmonton school system." The system of local autonomy in school administration had led the ablest men and women of the communities to give their services to education and education had benefitted, he told the gathering. The present trend, however, was more toward centralized administration, he added.

Oldest surviving chairman of the board, F. E. Butchart, spoke briefly. Mrs. E. L. Hill, former trustee, spoke in the absence of the first lady trustee, Miss Bessie Nichols, now Mrs. J. Spratt, at the coast.

S. A. G. Barnes, present member of the board and trustee for more than 20 years, spoke of changes going on in society which would necessitate changes in education.

W. T. Cromb, vice-principal of Queen's avenue school and popular tenor, gave a solo and led the gathering in singing "Auld Lang Syne."

J. S. Ingleson, school musical director, officiated at the organ.

Oil Company Official Is City Visitor

Police Court

Were he still alive, David Harum might have taken Oscar Slater, young colored man of north Edmonton, under his wing as a protege. Oscar, who was $64 behind in his board, so he turned over to his creditor as security a bay horse with two gaiters and a crippled left leg, along with a wagon and set of harness. Needing them later to haul 30,000 bundles of feed, Oscar borrowed the security and made the mistake of selling the works for $11 to a horse trader, who told the court he expected to resell for $16. Magistrate Col. P. C. H. Primrose set the case over for a week to give Oscar a chance to settle up.

* * *

Pleading guilty to theft of $9 from the Fleming Drug Store, 101 street, George Tannons, who slipped the money out of the cash register while using the telephone behind the counter, was remanded for sentence to Wednesday.

* * *

James Morgan, struggling to keep off relief with a $12 per week messenger job, was fined $2 for riding on the sidewalk.

* * *

For speeding past a school on 96 street in excess of the bylawed 20 miles per hour, R. H. Galbraith and Harold W. Watson were each fined $3 and costs.

* * *

Four businessmen were hailed into court for failure to procure the various licenses demanded by the city. A restaurateur paid $5 and costs, a cleaner and dyer the same amount while a confectioner touched a new low of 50 cents which we equalled by a fruit store operator who failed to have a license to sell cigarettes.

* * *

His face criss-crossed with angry looking scars, a "drunk" pleaded guilty to intoxication and made an unsuccessful attempt to arouse the sympathy of the court.

"What happened to you?" asked Col. Primrose.

"I didn't eat anything yesterday," was the face I mean," said Col. Primrose.

"Fell on the flour."

"You look it. Should be more careful. The usual $20 and costs."

Adjournment to February 28 was given Tony Romanchuk charged with perjury arising out of evidence he gave at the free trials of Alex Huzard for receiving stolen property and contributing to the delinquency of a juvenile. He is alleged to have lied about one of Huzard's aliases. Both men are in now.

PARTY OF OIL CO. OFFICIALS HERE ON VISIT

Sales Conference Held Under Direction of Mobiloil Manager

Holding, in Edmonton, the ninth of a series of eleven sales conferences under the direction of the Imperial Oil Limited, F. W. Sullivan, New York, Socony-Vacuum Oil Company, who is in charge of the sale of Mobiloil products in Canada arrived in Edmonton Tuesday morning accompanied by H. L. Magee, Toronto, sales supervisor for the Imperial Oil, W. C. Gilchrist, Toronto, of the Cockfield, Brown company, advertising counsel and G. A. Round, New York, automotive engineer for the Socony-Vacuum Oil company.

The conferences, which commenced at St. John's, N.B., have been held in all the larger centres throughout Canada, will conclude at Vancouver.

25 SALESMEN ATTEND

Attended by some twenty-five salesmen of the northern Alberta division, the conference is featuring plans and sales discussions were heard during the conference.

The first business of its kind to be held by the company for several years, Mr. Round said that it was an expression of confidence in the future of the company. Business, he stated, was appreciably better throughout the entire Dominion and it was felt that the outlook for the present year was appreciably better.

Of particular interest was an address given by Mr. Round regarding the new clearsole refining process and the results gained from the three-mile test well that had a flow of cars from the Peace River district to Mexico.

TRIP SUCCESS

Conducted some eighteen months ago, the trip, stated Mr. Round, had proved invaluable for experimentation in the development of oil processes. Commencing in the Peace River district, roads that had proved almost impassable had been traversed, said Mr. Round, while other tests, such as high altitudes and varying degrees of temperature, had been of inestimable benefit in the determination of the suitability of automobile oils.

The party will leave Edmonton Tuesday night for Calgary, where a similar conference with southern Alberta salesmen will be held.

MERCURY SINKS TO ZERO MARK

The first trace of the heavy snowstorms that have swept the northern portion of the province for the past two days appeared here when a few fine flakes were wind-driven about the city streets at 8:45 a.m. today.

Temperature sank to the zero mark in record time, and, reached to five above at 9 a.m. A biting wind, blowing 14 miles an hour out of the northwest, drifted through winter coats and penetrated through the heaviest underwear. Yesterday's highest temperature was 25 above.

Throughout the north today it was still snowing, but expected to clear before tomorrow. The forecast is "continued cold," with the morning's temperature reading 27.6° up.

The western weather map today presented a bleak picture, with cold wind here, rain at Winnipeg, snow at Regina and fog at Moose Jaw.

IMPROVEMENTS IN RADIO SHOWN AT COOKING SCHOOL

Standard and short-wave reception in every set—plus "all-wave" and additional tuning-bands in many of the models feature Canadian General Electric radios.

The new models—built around new superheterodyne chassis in five, six, eight, ten and twelve-tube types and a seven-tube battery-operated type—include both table models and consols. All sets receive both broadcast and short-wave signals. Four are standard and short-wave models, the rest of the line being all-wave receivers covering at least 540-18000 kilocycles, as defined by the engineering section of the Radio Manufacturers Association. Of these, two models have one additional band and three others have two additional bands over and above those required by the RMA, all-wave definition.

Among the new features incorporated in the new multi-band models are three improvements designed to lend added ease and simplicity to the tuning of the shorter wavelength bands. These are: (1) dual-ratio tuning, by means of which the tuning knob, when pulled out slightly, provides a change in ratio from 10:1 to 50:1, and thus affords convenient vernier tuning; (2) band indicators, by means of which a letter, such as "A," "B," or "C," appears in an aperture at the bottom of the new square-shaped airplane-type dials in order to indicate which band is being tuned; and (3) "stop-watch" band spreadials, by means of which an auxiliary pointer—very much like the sweep-second hand of an electric clock—"spreads" the short-wave bands through a much larger arc than that covered by the customary pointer and thus makes possible the accurate recording of dial settings for many short-wave stations, the logging of which would otherwise be practically impossible.

The five-tube chassis, with a two-band range of 540-1800 and 5600-18000 kilocycles, receives all broadcast frequencies, one band or police calls at 1712 kilocycles and the five most important short-wave channels of 49, 31, 25, 19 and 16 meters.

The six-tube chassis, an "all-wave" receiver, is similar to the five-tube set, but in addition has a third wavelength-band of 1800-5600 kilocycles, which enables it to provide continuous tuning from 540-18000 kilocycles, and also has one radio-frequency stage of amplification preceding the first detector and oscillator, which affords increased sensitivity and greater selectivity.

The eight-tube chassis features a fourth or extended long-wave band permitting reception of European long-wave broadcasts and U.S. aircraft work.

The ten-tube chassis is a five-band receiver with twin-push Class "AB" amplification and a dual-tone-control feature that affords individual shading of both bass and treble notes. Four of the five bands provided in this act cover the same frequencies as the eight-tube chassis. The fifth, however, is an ultra-short-wave band of 18000-36000 kilocycles, which converted to wavelength, is approximately 8½ to 16⅔ meters. This band permits reception of 13-meter amateur broadcasting, 16-meter amateur transmission, and ultra-high-frequency police calls.

The de luxe twelve-tube chassis, covering the same five bands as the ten-tube set, has two intermediate-frequency stages of amplification which partly account for its unusual sensitivity and selectivity, particularly on the short-wave band. In addition, a dual automatic volume control using two tubes, one Type 6D6 and one Type 78, maintains signals at the desired level and helps to minimize interference noises when tuning between stations. A low-tone compensator and advanced tone equalizers contribute to the excellent, life-like performance of the set for which this chassis is used.

Cooking School Grand Prizes Distributed

Every woman who attends the Edmonton Bulletin Cooking School has an equal chance for the grand prizes. It is not possible, however, for one woman to win all the grand prizes or even two of the major prizes. Strangely enough, at one School, that actually happened, and a rule had to be made to prevent such a happening at subsequent school. It occurred in Vancouver. The program coupons were shuffled and the lucky number, amid deafening applause, was drawn from the heap. The lucky number holder claimed her prize. Then the drawing was made for a second major prize. The odds were more than one thousand to one against such a thing, but the same woman proved to be the fortunate winner. Her two program numbers, for two consecutive days' attendance at the School, were drawn in one-two order, and she claimed an electric range and a case of silver. The present rule limits each woman to one grand prize.

The King Dares to Ride in a "Horseless Carriage"

KING GEORGE was nothing if not an adventurer bold. He loved the sea and all the thrills and action that go with sailing.

But here is the new King in a different kind of adventure. He is seen in today's picture in the front seat of an early motor car, a "horseless carriage," with Hon. C. C. Rolls, of Rolls Royce fame. In the back seat, behind the King, is Lord Llangattock with Sir Charles Guest.

Remember that this picture was taken 'way back when gasoline vehicles were a rarety and looked upon by most people as fit only for crazy men.

But King George, by virtue of "daring" to drive in one, probably did more to popularize motor cars in Great Britian than any other individual. It is characteristic of King George that always he is eager, whenever it is humanly possible, to accede to the countless requests made upon him by his subjects. Few kings have worked harder than this man who, up until he was 18 years of age, never dreamed that he would one day be monarch of the world's greatest empire.

IMPORT GOODS GIVEN FAVOR OVER LOCAL

Empire Products May Sell As Low As $1.10 Per Bottle

OTTAWA, March 26—Two points in the budget delivered Friday by Finance Minister E. N. Rhodes have aroused the ire of interested parties, the reduced taxes on liquor and the lack of any downward reduction of taxes on cosmetics.

Of the hundreds of telegrams reaching Mr. Rhodes since Friday the majority, it was stated, were complimentary. Others were unanimous in protest against the treatment of spirits.

Exception has been taken to the lowered liquor taxes by both temperance workers and distillers, a delegation of the latter having met the finance minister to present their views.

H. Norman and W. H. Clelan representing distillers in Waterloo, Ont., presented a brief to the minister urging that the excise duty on domestic liquor be reduced to acclaiming budget changes in the customs tariff with regard to spirits imported from Empire countries will enable distributors of those imported in Canada to undersell local producers.

IMPORT CONCESSIONS

The budget proposes to reduce the excise duty on domestic spirits from $7.50 to $4 per gallon, and lowers customs duty on spirits imported from empire countries from $9 to $6. In addition the excise tax of 11 per cent. heretofore levied against imports from empire countries is abolished, while a still further concession is given imported spirits from empire countries in that the local excise duty of the liquor in the country of origin will not be included in fixing the value for duty purposes on importation into Canada.

MENACE TO INDUSTRY

Canadian distillers are in this a menace to their industry, particularly with respect to spirits brought in from South African and Australia. Under the new taxes a bottle of the cheapest Canadian whisky, now selling for $2.90, will be sold for $1.75. Empire country imports of the same standard and value would sell as low as $1.10, the liquor interests stated.

Whether, if any, will be taken to meet demands of local distillers was not indicated.

Avoid Starvation Act As Manner of Reducing

By GLADYS GLAD
"America's Most Famous Beauty"

When that dainty and petite cinema star, Alice White, first arrived in the Hollywood scene, she possessed what was then considered a typical "It" figure. Sound-limbed and softly-curved, her shape was regarded as one of the loveliest in the entire movie mecca, and it fully deserved every bit of the admiration that was bestowed upon it.

When the craze for slenderness hit Hollywood, however, Alice, like many of the other stars, began to worry about her weight. Fashion demanded exaggerated slend rness. And so Alice starved herself into the bony outline that was then the fashion. She lost not only pounds, but a good deal of her pep as well, and although she has now regained her former perfect proportions, she knows that that starvation act is one thing she'll never do again.

RAPIDITY IS FOOLISH

There are many women who, like Alice, desire to lose weight in a very speedy manner. But let me tell you that any girl who embarks upon a reducing routine of questionable merit just because it guarantees speedy results is a very foolish individual. For great damage can be done by a poorly-planned reducing routine. A too speedy reducing routine may not only prove injurious to your health, but may impair the loveliness of your face as well. When the face is padded with fatty tissue, it looks round and youthful. But when these fatty layers are broken up too quickly, the skin, which was stretched to accommodate the fat, doesn't have time to shrink properly. As a consequence, the face intestines. It is the abdominal fat that supports these organs. And when this fat is dissolved too rapidly, the support is removed, and the stomach and intestines sink down in the resultant cavity, leaving the abdominal walls in a loose and flabby condition. Permanent harm to the health can be done if this condition is permitted to develop. No woman, therefore, ever should start on a reducing course without first making sure that it is a safe and reliable one. For only then will she lose weight satisfactorily, and at the same time retain her youthfulness, health and vitality.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES
Astringent

Jean: I would suggest that you use a mild astringent on your skin at intervals during the day. This will remove the excess oil and eliminate the shininess of which you complain. You should weigh about 120 pounds.

Candidate For Athabasca Has Now Withdrawn

J. McCrae Newman, field secretary for Western Canada of the Continental Committee on Technocracy, has announced his withdrawal as a federal candidate for the constituency of Athabasca. He stated that a trans-Canada lecture tour previously arranged with the work involved in an intensive educational campaign would render it impossible for him to carry on a campaign in such a large constituency. At the same time he issued thanks to Athabasca electors signing a petition favouring him as their nominee.

It is not likely that any animals of the past were larger than present-day whales. The largest beasts we know about in pre-historic times are the dinosaurs, which, although they were longer than our whales, were not as great in bulk or weight. Much of their length was due to their long tails and necks.

NEW RADIOS USEFUL IN RIVAL PARTS

Believe it or not, the average Canadian hockey broadcast audience last winter was a million listeners.

Back in the bush or out on the farm, in mining camps and logging camps, in remote and inaccessible places all over the Dominion, old and young lined in week after week to hear the most dramatic thing on the air, and they heard it through practically every common or-dible contrivance that could be rigged up for receiving sets. In the midst of the pioneer, amateur electricians in pioneer communities contrived battery outfits that seemed to defy all the laws of the radio, but that did their appointed jobs brought in the game. Only many a sigh went up from the audiences for something as nearly foolproof as the set in the city home, with tone and volume and all the modern improvements that have distinguished developments in radio engineering in recent years.

Here's good news for the sufferers.

Canadian General Electric is offering two new battery radio sets for homes without electric current—and they are backed by the full General Electric quality guarantee as to tone and performance. One of these sets is a table model—the Tabolair—the other a console—the Consolair. Prices are reasonable and terms can be arranged. Recognizing that a radio receiver can be no better than its tubes, General Electric has equipped both these sets with their new dual-purpose radiotrons, perfected after years of research in their radio laboratories and recognized as one of the major radio improvements of recent years. Owners of battery sets equipped with these radiotrons can be certain of superb tone quality, tremendous reserve power, improved volume control, quieter operation, greater sensitivity, greater selectivity, and more economical battery operation.

When stockings—ask yourself:

"Have I been washing them the wrong way?"

Stockings ARE lovely nowadays, aren't they?—made with an elasticity—a live "spring" that lets them give without breaking.

Yet many girls unknowingly destroy this precious elasticity . . . actually encourage runs by WRONG washing.

Ordinary soaps, often containing harmful alkali, and rubbing with cake soap . . . may DESTROY the elasticity in stockings, leaving the silk flabby . . . lifeless. Then breaks and runs are more apt to start.

Safe, gentle Lux is especially made to preserve elasticity so stockings give without breaking. There is no harmful alkali in Lux to injure fibers, no rubbing to weaken threads. Anything safe in water is safe in Lux.

Start today to cut down your stocking bills with safe Lux. It takes only 2 minutes a night to Lux stockings—and it saves money.

See Miss Frances Thompson Demonstrate Lux

Do you still cling to old-fashioned washing methods? There's no need to! See Miss Frances Thompson at the Canadian School of Home Science this week demonstrate the modern economical Lux way of caring for stockings and lingerie. The new Lux is so easy . . . and so safe. The 8-times-finer flakes dissolve instantly in lukewarm water. Rich but gentle suds remove dirt without rubbing. Don't risk using harsh soaps. Follow the advice of the experts: use only Lux for all fine things.

HEAR THREAT RELIEF CAMP STRIKE SOON

that the officials shall answer the complaints that are made."

Mr. Saunders opposed the Howson amendment, arguing that many complainants requested secrecy and that it would cause confusion if some were heard in camera and others in public.

Capt. H H. Dakin (Lib., Beaver River): We could have heard half of the cases if we had got down to business instead of chewing the rag in this way. Let's quit this chewing the rag and proceed to hear them. (Applause from the reliefers present.)

Hugh Farthing (Con.), Calgary, who was a member of the sub-committee, supported the Howson motion, so long as the "public hearings" were before the full committee and not before the sub committee.

"That's satisfactory to me," said the Liberal leader.

"I'll agree too, if that's the wish of the committee," added Mr. McCool.

It was accordingly agreed that the first question to each complainant shall be, "Do you want to testify publicly or privately?" and those wishing to testify privately be sent before a sub-committee.

CUT IN WORKING HOURS

Sidney Parsons, for the Ex-Servicemen's Association, was the first witness. He asked for a reduction of working hours and a scheme of public works at standard wages financed from the national wealth.

"The present methods are degrading to the recipients and a reflection on the intelligence of the community," he said in protesting that the unemployed are victims of the social system and have equal claim for adequate support until such time as the social system is made to fit the needs of the age.

He criticized the relief sums, the clothing allowances and the "under-cover agents" who, he said drove women into nervous breakdowns by their sleuthing.

Comrade Metcalfe of the Ex-Servicemen's Association, said he had been on relief for four years, asked for a unification of relief under one body.

TOO MUCH CHISELLING

"We get passed from one organization to another, each one refusing responsibility. At present there is too much chiselling and passing the buck," he said.

"We feel that ex-service men should have a prior claim on the federal government, and ought not to be sent from one to another," he added.

Jas. MacPherson of the Married Men's Unemployed Association said there were thousands of cases that needed redress.

"Mrs. Zolinka of Woodend had to walk in twenty miles before Christmas when needing relief, at a time when she was expecting a child. Mr. McKenzie told her he couldn't do anything, that it was for the Woodend municipality to deal with, so she had to walk back again.

REFUSED AID

"Again she had to walk in when the municipality refused to help. She couldn't get relief here and had no place to go to. While she was preparing to walk back she was taken ill and soon after arrival in the Royal Alexandra hospital her child was born.

"Three weeks ago the husband came in again to say that they were still denied relief at Woodend. They are still passing the buck between the municipality and the province, while the Zolinka family starves."

The witness produced a letter from the Mayor of Mundare to an applicant telling him that if he was "the same G—— d—— lazy hound you were when here" it was no use in applying.

"We can get oranges but not lemons", said the witness. "We can't get razor blades, that's why I'm not shaven."

"We can't get baking soda though it's cheaper than baking powder, and we can't get lye.

CAN'T GET PURE JAM

"Jews and Seventh Day Adventists have to take lard though their religion forbids them to use it. The list won't let us take pure jam—it must be jam with pectin. I wanted to take a 4-lb. can of pure jam for 43 cents, but the manager insisted I take jam with pectin at 49 cents."

"Single women and girls," said MacPherson, "are obliged to go to institutions where unmarried mothers are housed, giving rise to opportunities for misunderstanding. Families on provincial relief in the city get only $10 a month where the city allows $26.

Donald MacLeod (U.F.A., Stony Plain): Did you look into this man Selinko's position on the farm?

Witness—Only what he told me.

Mr. MacLeod—I am told he got $7 relief from the municipality each month, and had chickens and two or three milch cows.

TRAVELLED 22 MILES

Witness—He had to come into the city 22 miles to get MacKenzie to phone the municipality before he got the $7 a month.

Mr. MacLeod—I am told he got it right along.

Hon. Hugh W. Allan said that the municipal officials would absolutely deny the story of Selinko.

Harry Ross (Liberal, Calgary) said that some municipalities were cutting down relief for the purpose of driving indigents into the cities, where the relief scale was higher "Twenty-five per cent of the cases in Edmonton have come in since 1930. That is a matter this committee must go into."

ONLY A GO-BETWEEN

Relief Commissioner MacKenzie, called to throw light on the Selinko case, said he was only a go-between without authority, in acting between the province and the municipalities.

"We did communicate with the municipalities in this case and they authorized her hospitalization. The municipal officials say they had trouble with this man — that he would not sell hay that he had an excess of what was needed for his livestock. A man offered $50 for the surplus hay, but he wouldn't sell. The Selinkos have four children and they get $7 a month from the municipality, but he wants more.

Mr. MacKenzie read the report of the municipal officials before the sub-committee in the Selinko case.

SEEMED TO ACT FAIRLY

"I can quite frankly say," added Mr. MacKenzie, "that we acted on the man's behalf and the municipality seemed to act fairly." The witness denied that he had told Mrs. Selinko to walk home again while she was in an expectant condition.

J. Walkinshaw of Beverly supported the ex-service men in their claim that the relief scale is too small. "We are allowed to earn up to $5 a month but all I have been able to earn on the side in Beverly in a whole year is one dollar."

Most of the wives, he said, could get better value and more food variety if they were allowed to shop themselves instead of getting rations.

COULDN'T GET COAL

"For a long time," he said, "we couldn't get coal. The province said that as we had a mine there, we should get our own coal, but the coal was owned by a private firm. I had to wait five weeks to get a pair of boots for my boy because an official was away and they couldn't hold a meeting."

A. Johnston, of the Relief Camp Workers' Union, protested against the regulations prohibiting committees to present grievances. "There are no good camps. All of them are bad. At Luscar a man was fired and threatened with the police, turned out of the camp in sub-zero weather with only ten cents in his pocket, because he had presented grievances about medical conditions.

Six others in another camp were fired for making protests and one was given a term in Fort Saskatchewan as a vag.

At camp 57 in Mountain Park men were fired because they complained of lack of medical facilities. Mr. MacKenzie had refused to recognize the men as an organization, and had threatened them with police prosecution if they did not go back to work within 24 hours.

One man developed paralysis and lay for days without doctor or treatment till sent into town on a flat car.

The police ejected 45 men from the camp and forced the others to go to work under threats of driving them out.

STATEMENT DENIED

The witness denied Mr. MacKenzie's statement that the men got two suits of underwear.

Hon. Mr. Allan—Are you on relief?

Witness—No.

Q.—How do you make a living?

A.—I am paid by the Relief Camp Workers' Union.

Mr. Farthing—How many members are in it?

A.—About 1,200.

Q.—Do you accept responsibility for what appears in "The Relief Camp Worker"?

A.—Yes; I agree with its opinions.

The witness asked for workmen's compensation in the camps, a 45-cent wage scale, a five-day week and a six-hour day.

Mr. Farthing: Is your organization planning a general strike in the camps in the spring?

A: Yes, if our grievances are not adjusted.

Witness said that men pay 10 cents a month into the union funds, out of which his salary is paid.

Broomhall

CHICAGO, March 26—England imported a lot of denatured French wheat yesterday at 15s per quarter equal to 45c a bushel duty extra. Plate corn for April shipment quoted at 16s 9d equal to 47c a bushel of 56 pounds duty extra.

The U.S. classifies "feed wheat" as any wheat containing more than 30% damaged kernels. Canadian wheat is close to this specification and six wheat is too dear basis Minneapolis, for importations.

There are now 2,457,000 bushels of African corn and 130,000 bushels of Argentine corn in Canadian lower lake ports and St. Lawrence ports, besides 3,371,000 bushels of American corn in Canada.

The balance of Canadian wheat available for export on March 1st this year was 248,000,000 compared to 271,000,000 a year ago at the same time. The visible supply has now started to decrease and should continue to do so now with the opening of navigation next month.

World shipments are small again this last week. Europe received 67% and non-Europe 33%. Since last August Europe has received 72% and non-Europe 28%. The previous year Europe received 77%.

The persistent increase in wheat buying of non-European countries is having a steadying effect upon Liverpool wheat prices in spite of the fact that continental takings continue so poor.

STOCKS SINK AFTER RALLY

NEW YORK, March 26—The stock market made a timid effort to get its bearings early today but found cross currents too strong and sank back in a narrowly declining rut where it finished minor fractions to around a point lower in all sections except non-ferrous metals and sugars. Transfers aggregated 430,000 shares.

DATS and DANS by BILL LEWIS

Eddie Wenstob took another step up the fistic ladder on the other side of the Atlantic last night when he pounded out a 12-round victory over Eric Simmons at Leicester, England. . . Prior to that, the rugged youngster Mike Kaplansky took from here across the ocean had secured two draws, both of which surprised the lads who are supposed to be fight experts. . . . Fifst of these was with Ben Foord, South African champion, and the second against the brilliant Erich Seelig, European middleweight and light-heavyweight titleholder. . . This win Monday, coming on top of those two upsets, will bring him more than ever to the fore in English boxing circles.

The Seelig bout was an outstanding surprise to Old Country critics, all of the best-known authorities picking him to win beyond any question of doubt. . . Yet Wenstob's green youngster was able to step in and hold his own. . . . That's plenty promising in itself and dimmes this triumph over Simmons.

Boston Bruins received a tough break for the second game of their series with Toronto Maple Leafs in the National League championship finals when it became known yesterday that Babe Siebert would not be able to play tonight. . . . The Bable is likely to be missed aplenty to the Bruins but they may be able to take their second straight win, at that . . . . If Eddie Shore is going at his best and gets the proper kind of help from Bert McInenly, the Leafs will find they still have a tough job on their hands in trying to whip the Bostonians.

There will be a couple more tough struggles too, when Rangers hook up with Canadiens in Montreal, and Maroons invade Chicago to take on the Blackhawks. . . . Rankers have one-goal to work on in their series with the Canucks, but the Maroons-Blackhawk game brings the two together on even terms, the first contest nearly finished in a scoreless draw.

Seattle Seahawks and Vancouver Lions are not making much headway in deciding the championship of the Northwestern Hockey League . . . Last night the Lions went out and beat the Seahawks to square the final playoffs at two wins each, thus making a fifth game necessary. . . .

If the present weather warms up a bit, it won't be long before golfers will be out swinging the clubs over the five city courses, and once there will follow a host of all summer sports—we hope.

Preston Wins 7-1 Of Girls' Playoff

GALT, Ont., March 26—Preston Rivulettes, Eastern champions for three years, defeated Toronto Eaton's 7-1 here last night in the first game of the Canadian Women's Hockey championship series for the Lady Bessborough trophy. The second game with goals counting on the two-game round, will be played here Wednesday night.

A crowd of 2,000, one of the biggest hockey gatherings of the season here, watched the five-times champions of Ontario crush the Westerly title-holders with a decidedly superior brand of hockey. Preston fans came here by the hundreds for the game and with a full band with them.

They saw a contest that proved women's hockey is no pink-tea business. Seventeen penalties were handed out in the two periods and when the Winnipeg girls worked hard in a futile effort to cut down Preston's early lead.

Rivuletter displayed superiority over most of the distance, however, with Helen Schmuck leading the attack with four goals. Olive Torrence scored the lone Western goal late in the third period. The Winnipeg girls worked hard but could not make their plays click inside the Preston blue line. Both goalies turned in stellar performance.

No Fight Between Baer and Schmeling

BERLIN, March 26—The Westdeutcher Beobachter, leading Nazi newspaper in West Germany, said Tuesday there would be no fight for the championship between Max Baer, holder of the heavyweight title, and Max Schmeling, because Baer is a Jew.

"A contest between the German Schmeling and the Jewish exponent of American professional boxing, Mr. Baer, is unauthoritative," the newspaper asserted.

Big League Puck Squads Resume Three Playoff Battles Tonight

Bruins' Chances Receive Blow When Siebert Unable to Play

By GEORGE MAGUIRE

BOSTON, March 26. — Boston Bruins' hopes of making it two in a row over Toronto Maple Leafs in their National Hockey League championship series suffered a setback Monday when "Babe" Siebert went to the sidelines with an injured foot, but the Beantowners remained confident of thumping Connie Smythe's skaters again Tuesday night.

Babe Siebert

The veteran defence man reported he was unable to stand on it right foot that suffered bone bruise when kicked by a Leaf Saturday night as the Bruins surged to victory in the first game of the series decided on a three-games-in-five series.

Siebert's injury was not regarded seriously until it started swelling yesterday. The club doctor expressed certainty he could have the burly guard back in uniform for the third game at Toronto Thursday. Blond Bert McInenly will play alongside Eddie Shore in the meantime.

LEAFS IN SHAPE

Following a light practice at the Garden yesterday, the Leafs returned to their quarters at Kenmore club in good spirits and confident of winning Tuesday's match and squaring accounts before meeting for the conclusion of the series at Toronto.

Outside of minor gashes and bruises, the Canadian group winners emerged from Saturday's bruising contest in good shape, and unless the Leaf board of strategy decides on last minute changes the lineup will be the same as that which lost to the Bruins 1-0 after 83 minutes, 26 seconds of rousing hockey.

Conny Smythe, managing director of the Toronto outfit, stated there were no alibis to offer for the initial defeat. As a matter of fact, he considered something else at the fine showing of the team, which had appeared destined to win Saturday's game until Aubrey "Dit" Clapper let loose his booming shot of victory.

BRUINS JUBILANT

Among the Bruins, the atmosphere was clearly different from that of their rivals. While the Leafs were subdued in their confidence, the Bruins were loudly jubilant.

Clapper has been the idol of Boston's hockey-made populace, along with Eddie Shore, during the last 48 hours. He was still suffering from the wrenched knee he received in a collision with Happy Day, but it is expected he will play tonight.

Shore, probably the greatest athletic hero the Hub has had since Babe Ruth departed from the town years ago, showed no ill-effects from the terrific strain he endured by playing nearly the entire 90 minutes

Lloydminster Six Win Championship Of Big Six Loop

LLOYDMINSTER, March 26 — Vegreville Rangers intermediate champions of Alberta and British Columbia again met defeat last night when the Lloydminster Pioneers took a two-game 4-2 victory from them.

At the end of the regulation sixty minutes the score was 3-2 and, by virtue of the Rangers' 2-1 victory at Vegreville on Saturday, the two-game series, total goals counted for the championship of the Big Four league, and the Craig Cup was a tie of 4-4. Jim Kinney, captain of the Prolites, scored the winning goal after 24 minutes of strenuous overtime.

The crowd of 400 went wild with excitement as the elongated defence man trickily wormed his way through the entire Vegreville team to beat Ludder for the silverware.

Kinney was the outstanding star for the winners, getting a pair of goals, while the other scorers were Stewart and Lawrence. Lemiski and Mozel tallied for Vegreville.

LINEUPS:

Vegreville—Lidster; Onufreohuk, M. Barr; Lemiski, Mezel, Jacobs. Konieski, Wener, Romaniuk, McKinnon.

Lloydminster—Brown; Hoffman, Kinney; Bob McIvor, Geo. McIvor, W. Sabine, W. Salt, S. Lawrence, F. Spencer, Duffield.

SURE OF WIN

LESTER PATRICK

Coach of New York Rangers and named all-star coach of the National League, who expressed confidence last night his team would hold their one-goal lead over Les Canadiens when they meet in the second contest at Montreal tonight.

Chi Clash Attracting Big Crowd

CHICAGO, March 26—Montreal's husky Maroons and Chicago Black Hawks will battle it out here tonight for the right to continue in the Stanley Sup playoff series.

Stirred by Saturday's night's scoreless tie in the first match of the total-goal series at Montreal, Chicago fans have reserved enough seats to indicate the record attendance of 17,480, will be surpassed.

If the teams are still tied at the end of the regulation 60 minutes of hockey, they will go into the Stadium for a short, sharp drill.

Hooley Smith, classy centre, accompanied the Montreal squad but again will watch the struggle from the bench.

No serious Black Hawk casualties resulted from the bitter tussle at Montreal, although the selfesteem of Howie Morenz was damaged. The star forward was still talking to himself for having blown what happened to be a cinch goal Saturday night.

Young Joe Louis Looking for Win Over Big Carnera

DETROIT, March 26—Joe Louis, the sensational 20-year-old negro fighter, isn't a bit worried about his first 15-round bout, tentatively set for June 19 in New York with Primo Carnera, former world's heavyweight champion.

"I might going fast more than five rounds," the brown boy grinned Monday as he looked at the hands which have blasted him a place among the leading contenders for Max Baer's crown.

Joe has won 16 fights since turning professional, 13 of them by the knockout route.

Irish Sweepstake Draw Commences Today in Dublin

DUBLIN, March 26—The names of five horses entered in the Grand National steeplechase to be held at Aintree, Eng., on Friday, were posted here last night for the Irish Hospitals sweepstakes. The draw starts today despite every effort of the British government to ban it.

These five are favorites in the day's betting in London, were Golden Miller, Thomond II, Tapioca, Reynoldstown and Castle Irwell.

The touch of an electric switch will start the huge drum in the Plaza, Dublin's convention hall, grinding out more fortunes today.

Bruised, but Still Plenty Of Confidence Shown By Ranger Team

By SAM ROBERTSON

NEW YORK, March 26.—Bruised but confident, New York Rangers rode away to Montreal last night with a one-goal advantage over their Canadian rivals in the Stanley cup playdowns.

"Take them." Sure we will," said Manager Lester Patrick as he swung aboard the train after his hockey players. "Our casualties aren't serious."

The casualties—Captain Bill Cook and the veteran defender, Earl Seibert—were bet completely recovered as they went into the pullman. Cook was pale from the blood he lost as the result of the cranial artery Nels Crutchfield severed with his slashing stick in Sunday night's game. Seibert was a trifle lame from the charleyhorse he suffered when Silvio Mantha crashed him to the ice.

Patrick said, however, he felt certain Old Bill and his defence pair would be close to top form for tonight's decisive tilt between the National League third place clubs.

TALK OF DONNYBROOK

More than the 2-1 goal advantage Rangers were able to edge out over the Montreal flame-shirts in the first clash of the total-goal series, the talk of the town yesterday was the Donnybrook in which Captain Cook was injured.

Referee Ag Smith cleared the air with an explanation of why he banished Crutchfield for 22 minutes and Cook for only seven. The official said:

"First I handed out two minutes each for carrying high sticks. Bill started over and slapped Crutchfield (with the flat of his stickblade). That added five minutes for him, but when Crutchfield hit Cook over the head there was nothing to do but inflict a match penalty on the gentleman and order Crutchfield out for the remainder of the match.

"Such a penalty is compulsory when one player deliberately tries to maim another."

INCORRECT REPORTS

Reports that President Frank Calder of the league had ruled against Al Smith officiating in Montreal because of his handling of the game here are incorrect. The official refereeing schedule issued some day ago provided for Bill Stewart to replace Smith for the final game of the series.

Les Canadiens Expect to Win

MONTREAL, March 26. — Canadiens arrived home Monday full of pep and confidence of his having got down after a fiery game on foreign ice, they can defeat New York Rangers here tonight and take the third-place, total-goals playoff in the Stanley cup hockey eliminations.

Their confidence was based on the reversal of form shown by their own defence in the New York game. Regarded throughout the season as one of the weaker rearguards of the circuit, Canadiens gave Wilf Cude fine protection at Madison Square Garden, while playing short-handed for 13 consecutive minutes.

Tonight they intend to revert to wide-open aggressive tactics in an effort to wipe out the one-goal deficit and run up a total sufficient to carry them into the semi-final against either Chicago Black Hawks or Montreal Maroons, who will meet at Chicago tonight in the second-place bracket.

Five Thousand Fans See 'Peg Pee-wee Teams

WINNIPEG, March 26 — Five thousand fans packed the Amphitheatre rink here last night to watch Montreal Canadiens defeat Toronto Maple Leafs 5-4 in overtime and take possession of the

EDDIE WENSTOB SCORES WIN BY DECISION AT LEICESTER

LEICESTER, Eng., March 26.—Eddie Wenstob, Edmonton light heavyweight boxer, last night outpointed Ernie Simmons, of Birmingham, in a 12-round bout.

The Canadian fighter has made a good showing in his engagements since he started campaigning in Britain.

Last night's victory followed an upset verdict in which he earned a draw March 11 with Erich Seelig, German fighter, who claims the European middle and light-heavyweight titles. Wenstob's boxing ability at that time surprised the experts, who had expected the experienced German to win.

Wenstob also earned a draw when he went eight rounds with Ben Foord of South Africa, on Feb. 4.

ANNUAL MEET OF GUN CLUB HELD MONDAY

Leonard Wize President Of Edmonton Club For This Year

Election of officers for the ensuing year, presentation of cups and medals, and a fine program of entertainment featured the annual meeting and banquet of the Edmonton Gun Club held in the Corona last night.

There was a big turnout of members and preparations were made for a successful season in 1935.

Leonard Wize, well-known sportsman, was elected president for the year, while other officers are as follows: Vice-president, H. O. Patriquin; secretary - treasurer, Fred Tuft; assistant secretary, Stan Hyland; field captain, Clyde McDougall.

Directors elected were: Chas. Craddock, W. L. Freeman, Fred Gravelle, Ed. Howard, Dr. McGinnis, W. L. Pumphrey.

W. W. Winteringham, secretary-treasurer for the past five years, explained that pressure of private business necessitated his retirement from the office. He was presented with a life membership in the club in recognition of his long and efficient services to the organization.

Presentation of cups and medals were made to the following winners in 1934:

Class AA—Gordon King.
Class A—Adolph Neumann.
Class B—Fred Gravelle.
Class C—Stan Hyland.
Graham Cup—Gordon King.
Club championship trophy—W. L. Freeman, who also won the C.I.L. badge for a straight run of 50.

The entertainment was excellent, with 12-year-old Lawrence Kirk rendering two enjoyable songs, and Colleen Hughes giving a clever acrobatic display, assisted by Tommy Quilley.

U. S. AMATEURS GO TO BRITAIN

NEW YORK, March 26.—A small but promising delegation of United States golfers will make the trip to England for the British Amateur championship, starting May 20 at the Royal Lytham St. Annes course.

While the United States Golf Association has not as yet received his application for certification of his amateur standing—a duty imposed on it by the British association—William Lawson Little, Jr. of San Francisco, will be among the Cude trophy, presented by the golf guardian of the N.H.L. Canadiens, and a hectic affair for the teenage youngsters.

Dressed the same and playing under the names of the big league players in the major league, the peewee players went out to win with all the determination at their command. Toronto were down 4-2 at the end of the second period after ending the first with a 1-1 tie, but Maple Leaf goals in the third period put the game back into a tie and a second overtime period gave Canadiens the victory.

HI-School -Lights ON SPORT

By CHARLES TODD

A lot of rubber was shot at Stuart in the Scona Commercial nets last night and, although he tossed out plenty, plenty more trickled through and Victoria finally set the amount at eight goals compared to three drives home by the Commercialites in the final game of a home and home series, total goals to count, for junior city supremacy.

This win gives the North Siders the City Junior High School crown. They took the Commercialites two straight games. The first contest ended 1-0 and this last one 8-3, Victoria taking the round 9-3.

Bud Chesney who has kept the team in the running right along with his marksmanship did not let up his sniping for a moment and fattened his average with four goals and one assist. Robert Ramsey had a fine time with the puck, collecting three counters and one assist. Smith was credited with the eighth and final tally.

Adair, he of many battles and many goals, kept the losers in the race until the last period with his brace of counters. MacPherson aided the cause with a singleton.

LINEUPS

Scona Commercial—Stuart; McDonald, McCallum; Adair, Harris, MacPherson, Caswell, Grant, and Stuart.

Victoria—Lupul; Glanville, Belander, Ramsey, Chesney, Smith, Adams, Campbell, Hall.

There was one happy man after last night's contest and that was Coach Dobson of the Victoria crew. That win just meant title number two to his credit. Out of his three teams, senior, junior and bantam, he picked off city championships with the last two mentioned.

Another junior title will know its fate tonight when McDougall and Garneau will step out onto the Victoria gymnasium to battle through a sudden death game.

Garneau will enter the fray the under dog but it will have little or no effect on their supporters who will turn out en masse to give their players a cheering possible. They have the finest bunch of rooters in the city housed in their institute.

If the Commercialites can take this game it will give them a clean sweep of all cage titles for which they competed. In fact the only ones they did not pick up were the junior and bantam boys' trophy now reposing at Victoria. The reason there were not added to their collection was probably because they did not compete for them.

Seattle Seahawks Lose Fourth Game By Margin Of 3-2

Two Third-period Goals Give Lions Victory On Home Ice

VANCOUVER, March 26—Two last period goals gave Vancouver Lions a 3-2 victory over Seattle Seahawks in their battle for the Northwestern Pro Hockey League championship here last night, tied up the series at two games each and made a fifth and deciding game necessary at Seattle Wednesday night.

Entering the third period with the score deadlocked at 1-1 as the result of goals in the middle session, Lions jumped into the lead after less than two minutes of play. Clint Smith carried the puck into the corner near the Seattle goal and passed out to Bobby Kirk, parked in front of the net. The Lions winger flipped the puck into the net after Emmett Venne as the Seahawks goalie went to his knees in an effort to save.

WINNING MARKER

About seven minutes later Lions counted the goal that gave them their margin of victory. Hank Dyck cut around the Seattle defense and passed out from behind the Seahawks goal. Tip O'Neill was waiting on the penalty shot circle and picked up the pass to drive it past Venne.

Seattle cut down Vancouver's lead at mid-period. Les Whittles started the scoring play, circling the Vancouver net and passing out to Cam Proudlock who backhanded the disc past Johnny Clarke in the Vancouver goal.

LINEUPS:

Seattle—Venne; Gilhooly, Houbregs; McAdams, Tabor, Hemmerling; Sobs, Mullen, Shepperd, Proudlock, Whittles.

Vancouver—Clark; Brannan, Hutton, Smith, Kirk, Hextall. Subs: Fraser, Dyck, O'Neill, McFarlane.

Referee—Amby Moran; Judge of play, Bernie Morris.

SUMMARY:

First period—No score. Penalty, Gilhooly.

Second period—1, Vancouver, Hutton, 7:30. 2, Seattle, McAdam 13:40. Penalties: Gilhooly, Dyck, Whittles.

Third period—3, Vancouver, Kirk (Smith) 4:24. 4, Vancouver, O'Neill (Dyck) 8:02. 5, Seattle, Proudlock (Whittles) 9:12. Penalties: None.

Melville Hockey Fans Following Three Favorites

MELVILLE, Sask., March 26.—Local hockey fans are following the Stanley cup playdowns with unusual interest this year as three boys who played hockey with the Melville "Millionaires" are performing in the "big time" series.

Alex Motter and Eddie Shore, of Boston Bruins, and Wilf Cude, of Montreal Canadiens, are the brightest lights of the playoffs for Melville fans.

Motter is in a National League final his first year as a professional, having been drafted from Brain Cubs when Paul Haynes injured his leg. He first played in Melville with Regina Pats, and last year with Prince Albert Minto.

Eddie Shore, born at Fort Qu'Appelle, Sask, and now farming near Edmonton, was also a "Millionaire" for a period, while Walsborn Wilf Cude starred with the Millionaires after his debut in St. Vital, a municipality adjoining Winnipeg.

Fort St. John Boys' Club Holds Concert

FORT ST. JOHN, B.C. (By Mail) —The Fort St. John Boys' Club held a successful concert, March 15, the proceeds amounting to $50. Due to lack of room the concert was held in the hall itself.

Outstanding on the program was a solo by three-year-old Coral Hunter, also a pantomime by Irven Pickell, Irvin Foster and R. Spinking.

In a hockey game on March 17 Fort St. John defeated Baldonnel 4-1. In two games here the previous day, Fort St. John was defeated by Monteney 3-2 and by Pine View 3-1.

CARTER HERE FOR HIS BOUT WITH KMECKI

"Wildcat" Arrives in City for Battle on Friday on Pro Card

"Wildcat" Carter, lithe little Seattle negro who gained wide popularity here last fall when he gave a masterful exhibition of two-fisted slugging and clever boxing, arrived back in the city yesterday to taper off training for his bout at the New Empire Friday night against Frankie Kmecki of Winnipeg.

Carter, whose home was in Edmonton until some years ago, when he left to gain a lot of fistic prominence on the Coast, had a workout Monday and will continue them daily until Thursday. He is in fine shape right now.

The Kmecki-Carter joust will be the semi-final on the card which is headlined by the Western Canada middleweight championship battle between Sailor Goodland and Johnny Blochlinger. The main event goes 10 rounds and the semi-wind-up eight, with two six-round preliminaries also on the bill.

The Boxing and Wrestling Commission yesterday confirmed the headline bout as being for the official Western Canada championship. The following resolution of the Commission was given out in a letter received from them by Promoter Charlie Simmonds:

"That we (the commission) permit Promoter G S. Simmonds to bill this fight as being for the middleweight championship of Western Canada as claimed by Sailor Goodland, and that a letter be sent by the secretary to Promoter G.S. Simmonds to this end."

So now, the winner of the main event will be officially recognized as middleweight titleholder of the west.

Britain Curbs Pork Imports

LONDON, March 26.—The House of Commons Monday agreed to a government resolution confirming an order already in operation for the regulation of pork imports into the United Kingdom. The order does not apply to the Dominions.

The order was designed to reduce the by 48 per cent. It would affect chiefly chilled or frozen pork from the United States and Argentina, he said.

Many hotels and restaurants throughout the province are operated by orientals but the license board has disqualified them on grounds they are not British subjects. To date 253 applications have been filed for inspection.

Ease Planting Rules In Dry Areas Of U.S.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—The farm administration prepared Monday to permit farmers in excessively dry areas of the United States to ignore wheat contract provisions requiring planting and at the same time it put a limit on the acreage increases to be allowed contract signers.

The contracts require farmers to plant 54 per cent of their base acreage to wheat. Representative Coffee, Nebraska Democrat, asked Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace to remove the requirement in western Nebraska's drought counties. Farm officials announced the requirement would be waived in counties recommended by state extension directors.

British Woollen Men Discount Budget Benefits

MANCHESTER, March 26.—The Manchester Guardian yesterday quoted Yorkshire woollen men as saying the budget changes in the Canadian woollen tariffs are "trivial and not likely to make the slightest amount of difference to the trade done."

They were admittedly steps in the right direction, they added. But such small steps they would not take the English trader very far.

FREAK DEALS

Freak deals liven the game by yielding unexpected results. Such was the case with the hand shown below, which appeared last evening. East and West had won a game and they were 60 on rubber game.

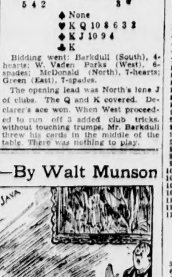

Miss Kirsch, sitting East, made an opening bid of 1-spade, after 2 passes. Bidding continued, South, 2-hearts; Joseph Kennedy, sitting West, 2-spades; R. L. Purdy, North, 4-clubs; East, 4-spades. Sitting South, I felt that I had to show my second suit, and I bid 5-diamonds. West naturally felt he had me trapped and doubled; North re-doubled; East calmly bid 5-spades; North, 6-diamonds, which West doubled. That ended the bidding, although I would have liked opponents to go 6-spades, as things turned out.

The opening lead was the 10 of clubs. Dummy's J and East's K covered. I ruffed. Almost certainly West held the two red K's, or he never would have doubled. The 10 of trumps was led through and held. East showed out, dropping the 6 of spades. The 4 of diamonds was covered with the 9 and J.

Dummy's Q of clubs was led. East had to play the ace. I ruffed. Fortunately West held the 2. Had he ruffed it would not have defeated us as I led my Q of diamonds through West. His K took Dummy's ace. Dummy had left 2 good trumps, 5 good clubs and a single heart, of which I held the ace. The cards were spread for a grand slam, with remarks by opponents. Having tied the score, we proceeded to run up a 3,000-point rubber. I wonder if my partner would have dared bid 7-diamonds had opponents bid 6-spades. As East was tempted to do!

Here is even a freakier hand which came this morning from Miami, Florida:

Bidding went: Barkdull (South), 4-hearts; W. Vaden, Parks (West), 6-spades; McDonald (North), 7-hearts; Green (East), 7-spades.

The opening lead was North's lone J of clubs. The ace and K covered. Declarer's ace won. When West proceeded to run off 3 added club tricks, without touching trumps, Mr. Barkdull threw his cards in the middle of the table. There was nothing to play.

ACE TORONTO SENIOR TEAM WINS OPENER

All-Stars Down Canucks in Allan Cup Game by 3-2 Score

OTTAWA, March 26.—The staying-power that gave them the title of the Ontario Hockey Association last night brought Toronto All-stars a sparkling 3-2 victory over Canadiens, Ottawa and district champions, in the first game of their Allan cup series before a crowd of 4,000. The All-stars will carry a two-point lead when the teams tangle in the second game in Toronto Wednesday night.

After a slow start which saw the All-stars trail by one goal at the end of the first and second periods, they came back with a display of hockey that completely baffled the Habitants but that gave them two goals and the game.

For the victors, Grivel played a standout game, scoring two goals and figuring in the third. Parsons, who opened the way for the winning goal, scored the second Toronto goal and figured in the first. For the losers, Reinhardt was the most effective man, scoring one goal after he received a pretty pass from Draper. Cheddie on a pass from Lecompte was the other Ottawa scorer.

Young Skips Give Bawling Out To Rinks

PEACE RIVER, March 26.—Last week an innovation was sprung by the high school boys and girls, who put on a 10-rink bonspiel that was followed by the boys and girls of the public schools. Both bonspiels drew large crowds.

Old curlers got a great kick out of some of the younger skips who, finding themselves not getting everything they asked for, would call their rink into a huddle to administer a thorough "bawling out" for their laxity. Good results were obtained.

Jubilee Fund From Coronation Is Handy Now

YORK, Eng., March 26.—The changing times have not changed the Yorkshireman's thrift.

When the people of East Winton in North Yorkshire met Monday to arrange their jubilee celebrations they found the village still had a balance left over from the coronation of Their Majesties 25 years ago. So East Winton will use it to celebrate their jubilee.

Feed Shortage In Peace Territory Worries Farmers

DIXONVILLE, March 26.—Scarcity of feed is a cause of great concern to Peace River cattlemen. One stockman not far from Dixonville has had to sell off all but sufficient feed.

Most farmers are now hauling feed and many are going as far as 20 miles for straw. This has only been possible since the snowplow was sent over the roads, as the snowfall here has been considerably heavier than for many years.

Coyotes are coming closer to farm buildings lately and one homesteader has shot three in his barnyard this winter. The animals are more numerous this year than usual.

E.A.C. GOALIE-PAGE BOY IS HONORED BY HOUSE MEMBERS

Netminder of Provincial Midget Champions Given Honor

Casting aside dignity, decorum and party lines, members of the legislature on Monday night gave three hearty cheers and a "tiger" for Sterling Bagnell, one of the legislative page boys—the smallest of them all—and the erudite goalkeeper of Clarence Mobey's Edmonton Athletic Club Midgets, provincial hockey champions of their class.

Sterling, a little fellow just "knee high to a grasshopper," stood upon the Speaker's throne of the legislature, where only a few days before there stood His Excellency the Earl of Bessborough, governor-general of Canada, and, attuned the barrage of cheers as coolly as he stood off the determined Medicine Hat rushes in the final game last week.

IN HOCKEY OUTFIT

Just before the house convened for the evening sitting, George E. Cruickshank, Independent, Rocky Mountain, who happens also to be president of the Alberta branch of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, entered the chamber.

With him was Master Bagnell in full hockey regalia, big pads, chest protector and all paraphernalia.

Mr. Cruickshank, briefly related how the little page boy had been such a vital factor in bringing the midget championship here and spoke of the pride of the members at having such an embryo Alex O'Connell, the "Shut-Out King," in their midst.

After making a presentation to the lad on behalf of the members, Mr. Cruickshank called on the house to give him three hearty cheers, which were given lustily and wholeheartedly.

YEARNING FOR SPORT

The legislators have a yearning for sport at present and a year ago when the E.A.C. junior team was making hockey history some thoughtful member installed a radio in an outer corridor and while the games were on, attendance debates in the chamber was low. When the E.A.C. tied up the score at 4-4 against St. Mikes there was a roar that squelched the orations within the chamber.

Thus, in honoring the youngest

Politics Active Through Peace River Country

PEACE RIVER, March 26.—The political situation of the province is getting plenty of review through this district and each community being visited by E. L. Gale, Liberal candidate, and G. W. Irwin, Conservative candidate, who are leaving nothing undone in their efforts to educate the electorate.

On Friday night Mr. Lamont assisted by the veteran Page Rider out, addressed a large crowd at Wolseyville. Mr. Rideout pointed out how the Liberal government took hold of the province in 1905 in other words "homesteaded" the province, and left as record for the U.F.A. government to shoot at.

Enormous railway construction for a young province, university buildings, parliament buildings, normal schools, jails and a remarkable telephone system were also left active and going concerns, with only a small capital debt as compared with the present indebtedness.

Mr. Lamont then spoke of the chaotic condition the province is in today, with a wrecked telephone system, school districts and municipal grants cut almost to the vanishing point and no railway problem in sight.

The cork tree is stripped of its valuable outer bark, always during the summer, at intervals of about eight or nine years.

E.A.C. boy, they carried on from the point they left off a year ago
